LADY ASTOR VOTES
WITH LABORITES

Premier Tells Members of American Trip; Says He Found Open Mind and Heart Here.

London, November 5.—(AP)—The house of commons late tonight voted 324 to 199 for resumption of diplomatic relations with soviet Russia after a long and somewhat acrimonious debate.

Earlier the house defeated by the same vote an amendment offered by former Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin deploring the "failure" of the new labor government to maintain the conditions which the prime minister and the foreign secretary had laid down for the resumption of political relations.

The vote of the house paves the way for restoration of the diplomatic ties severed in 1927 during the premiership of Mr. Baldwin. The Anglo-Russian trade agreement was terminated at the same time. The break followed a raid on the London headquarters of the Anglo-Russian trading organization. It was alleged that espionage and propaganda had been carried out under guise of the trade organization.

The next step toward resumption is an exchange of ambassadors, which is expected to follow quickly. Soon thereafter new negotiations will begin for the settlement of outstanding questions and probably including drafting of a new trade agreement.

The motion offered by Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson was the first test of strength of the new labor government and in voting his party had the support of liberals led by David Lloyd George.

It also marked the first definite accomplishment of the government headed by Ramsay MacDonald since other negotiations in the foreign fields and schemes for relief of unemployment at home which have been submitted for parliamentary approval.

The basis for resumption of relations with Russia was negotiated by Mr. Henderson and Valerian Kuznetsov, Russian ambassador in London. In the debate on the motion Mr. Henderson said that not a single word had been expressed opposition to the policy which has been pursued and that the replies received indicated it was generally recognized the renewal of relations sooner or later was inevitable.

In replying to charges by Mr. Baldwin that he had made a most humiliating surrender, the secretary stated that the government did not intend to recommend that parliament pledge the credit of British taxpayers to any loan raised by the soviet government. He announced that the soviet government had not been tolerated in any form at any time and said that all of the dominions, except one whose views had not yet been received, had requested the government to make applicable to them.

The government in the voting evening had the support of three conservative members of parliament, including Lady Astor, the Virginia-born member from Plymouth.

In concluding the debate for the opposition Sir Austen Chamberlain, former foreign secretary, said "the

SOVIET FLIERS ASK
PERMISSION TO HOP
ACROSS ATLANTIC

New York, November 5.—(AP)—Hoping to be first to fly the world by airplane, west to east, the four Russian aviators who last Saturday completed a 12,500-mile flight from Moscow to New York, have wired the Russian air ministry for permission to fly across the Atlantic.

If the permission is granted, the Russians hope to hop from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, to England in their Land of the Soviets, within three weeks.

They plan stops in England and France before returning to Moscow to complete the world flight in a heavier than air machine, following closely over the route that the Graf Zeppelin took last summer. The United States army fliers were first to fly by airplane around the world, their route lay into the setting sun.

Their flight here from Moscow required 70 days, but they were delayed frequently by adverse weather conditions and once were halted 9 days by motor trouble.

NEW NORTH SIDE
HIGH SCHOOL WORK
STARTS AT ONCE

County Board Votes Sum of $105,000 To Begin New Building; No Site Selected.

Construction of a North Side high school for September occupancy was assured Tuesday afternoon when the Fulton county board of education appropriated $105,000 for purchase of a site and erection of the first unit.

A committee whose membership was kept secret was appointed by the board and given power to act in the selection of a site for the county's third high school. The committee was instructed to spend not more than $20,000 for the site, and, if deemed advisable by the committee, to accept Eugene V. Haynes' offer of a free five-acre school site.

The committee will meet sometime next week and go into the selection of the site, it was said. A number of attractive locations have been offered to the board for the new school. Hentz, Adler & Shute have been selected by the board as the architects for the high school building.

The board appropriated $85,000 for the construction of a grammar school on Evelyn way in Grove Park and selected Daniel & Beutell as the architects. Other matters handled at the regular board meeting Tuesday were entirely routine, it was said following the session.

Agitation for a North Side county high school has been under way for several years. Numerous meetings have been held by citizens of north Fulton county to discuss the project. The county has a high school in East Point to serve that section, and another on Washington street to serve other sections of the county. North Side residents have complained that location of the county high school on Washington street requires the North Side students to travel too far to and from school.

STATE BANK HEAD
GUILTY OF BRIBERY

New York Superintendent Took Money To Permit Unlawful Practices, Jury Verdict Says.

New York, November 5.—(AP)—Frank H. Warder, resigned state superintendent of banks, today was convicted of bribery in connection with the collapse of the City Trust Company.

The supreme court jury, composed chiefly of middle-aged businessmen, had deliberated but little more than three hours before they returned the verdict.

Warder's bail of $35,000 was continued until Friday afternoon when sentence will be imposed in case all motions are denied.

Warder had been on trial for more than two weeks, accused of having obtained more than $100,000 in cash and expensive gifts for himself and family, although the indictment on which he was tried specifically charged him with receiving $10,000 from the late Francesco M. Ferreri, president of the bank.

The closing of the City Trust Company occurred almost simultaneously with the collapse of several other Ferreri enterprises, which had been built almost overnight from nothing and for nothing, the state intended, except to be receivers for money taken from the City Trust by its late president. Federal, state and bankruptcy inquiries were instituted, eventuating in the indictments against Warder and managerial associates of Ferreri.

Francis X. Mancuso, who had been chairman of the board of the City Trust, resigned as judge of the court of general sessions, explaining his efficiency on the bench might have been impaired by public suspicion concerning the acts of officers of the defunct bank.

HOOVER SLIGHTS
SENATOR JOHNSON
AT DINNER PARTY

Invites All Members of Foreign Relations Group Except Californian; Open Breach Seen.

Washington, November 5.—(AP)—Official Washington was speculating tonight over the failure of President Hoover to invite Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, to the White House dinner tonight in honor of Ambassador Dawes.

The California republican is the only member of the senate foreign relations committee who was not invited. All of the other members in the city were announced at the White House as dinner guests, with the exception of Senator Swanson, of Virginia. The latter announced that he declined the invitation as he is in mourning over the death of a brother.

The first Senator Johnson knew of the dinner was when he was asked about it late in the day. The word that the senator from Mr. Hoover's home state had not been invited quickly spread among his colleagues on the foreign relations committee.

Some members of the committee said they had been given to understand the dinner was a formal affair for the foreign relations committee to meet with Ambassador Dawes. The only senator who was invited to the dinner is not a member of the foreign relations committee is Senator Hale, of Maine, Ambassador Dawes is one of the American delegates to the London naval conference.

Sensor Johnson, who has been aligned against some of the Hoover policies in the senate since the president took office, declined to comment on his failure to be invited to the White House dinner along with the other members of the foreign relations committee. Colleagues of the Californian looked upon the incident as indicative of an open break between him and the president.

While there has been no open split between the two California republican leaders it has been known that their paths do not run close together. Senator Johnson conferred last year with Mr. Hoover soon after he received the republican nomination but there were signs after that conference that their views differed.

However, in the ensuing campaign each went his own way. Senator Johnson was re-elected senator by overwhelming vote. Mr. Hoover carried California by a huge margin for president.

In the senate during the Hoover incumbency, Senator Johnson voted against Mr. Hoover in his opposition to the export debenture principle of farm relief. He also voted against the president in his advocacy of the 18th amendment of the tariff bill. On both occasions Senator Johnson spoke vigorously. While complaining of the party "lash," Johnson did not directly attack Hoover for his views.

POSTAL RECEIPTS
REACH NEW PEAK

10-Month Total of $3,819,430 Far Ahead of Last Year—October, 1929, at Highest Point.

Hailed as an indication of great prosperity in Atlanta, local postoffice receipts for the first 10 months of the current year totaled more than $3,800,000, exceeding receipts for any previous similar period by many thousands of dollars, according to figures made public Tuesday by Postmaster E. K. Large.

Receipts for October were the largest for that month on record, passing the $400,000 mark for the first time. The actual figures were $417,175, a gain of nearly $38,000 over October, 1928, and brought the 10 months' total to $3,819,430.43.

The months of January, April, May, June, July, September and October of this year have shown gains over the corresponding figures for 1928. Mr. Large's report shows, and many of these set new all-time records.

Despite a record-breaking January, receipts for the first quarter of the present year showed a slight decline, a deficiency which was more than wiped out when all three periods in the second quarter showed increases and brought the six months' total to a new high mark.

The third quarter likewise showed a gain and with an increase of $35,911.80 in the first month of the last quarter, all indications point to a new high record for the entire year.

Gloria Rouzer, Reunited With Mother,
Refuses Small Bond in River Killing

Gloria Rouzer, or "Ione Orde," as she chose to call herself, held as a material witness in the slaying of Jack Kraft, New York pressman, is shown here between her mother, Mrs. Gloria Rouzer (left), of New York, and her attorney Miss Dorothy Frooks. The trio are shown outside the jail at Pointe A La Hache, La., where the girl has been held and from which her mother seeks to liberate her.

SPECIAL TRAFFIC
POLICE FAVORED

Mayor's Committee Asks Squad of 25 Cycle Men To Enforce Laws Downtown.

Twenty-five motorcycle patrolmen working under the direction of the traffic committee of the city council and not under the police committee will be asked of the 1930 council to enforce rigidly existing traffic regulations. Until that time no drastic changes will be made in regulations governing the central business district, if recommendations of a composite committee, named by Mayor I. R. Ragsdale, are adopted.

Decision to establish the squadron is to see that all parking regulations are enforced was taken after a lengthy discussion by members of the committee, during which every phase of the problem was considered.

If, after the enforcement plan is tried and it is still felt that changes are needed, remedial recommendations will be made later.

Division of Opinion. Sharp division of opinion developed at the session over whether the present non-parking areas should be extended, with C. C. Whitaker, chairman of the traffic survey committee, and Frank L. Butler, vice president of the Georgia Power Company, taking the position that extensions should be made, while Councilman James L. Wells, chairman of the composite committee; James P. Allen, prominent Atlanta merchant, and C. V. Hohenstein, secretary of the Atlanta Retail Merchants' Association, who substituted for A. L. Myer as a representative of the merchants, holding that no change is necessary.

At the present time a corps of 17 members of the police department are assigned to the traffic squad and most of them are on foot. This group works under the direction of the council police committee.

The plan to mount the traffic squad of 25 on motorcycles would, it is believed by members of the composite committee, enable better enforcement. The new men would not be on civil service and could be dismissed if they failed to perform their duties in a satisfactory manner, it was pointed out.

"Atlanta's streets are not garages and should not be used as such," Mr. Butler declared. "Angular parking should be eliminated altogether."

"We should by all means enforce the laws we have and, too, I think the non-parking area should be extended to include several of the main traffic arteries."

"While I do not attempt to qualify as an expert, I do feel that the present laws are satisfactory to the

Pointe a La Hache, La., November 5.—(AP)—Samuel Epstein, ship's steward, was released from jail today after he had given his testimony in the Jack Kraft murder case in the presence of counsel prior to arraignment of John McGouldrick, ship's officer, indicted for murder.

For several weeks Epstein had been held in the parish jail without the benefit of bond as a material witness. He was released late today in the custody of his attorney for appearance in court Thursday morning when McGouldrick will be given a preliminary hearing.

Gloria Rouzer, known as Ione Orde, was present but did not testify today and was returned to her jail cell when District Attorney Leander Perez objected to the proposal of Miss Dorothy Frooks, New York lawyer, that she be released in the custody of her mother, who came here from New York. The district attorney said he would not object to the girl's release on $2,500 bond and it was reported that Alfred D. Danziger, president of the New Orleans Association of Commerce, stood ready to put up the bond.

Examination Impossible. "Your offer of bond is just five weeks too late," snapped Miss Frooks. "I will not permit my client's release on bond at this late day as a matter of principle."

While the testimony was being heard in the courthouse, Dr. Joseph O'Hara, president of the Louisiana state board of health, was across the river examining the body of Jack Kraft at the Nairn cemetery to determine if death was caused by a bullet. Later he reported that he was unable to perform a proper examination due to the condition of the body. When the body was found several weeks ago, the parish coroner performed an autopsy and reported that death was due to a pistol shot through the heart.

District Attorney Perez admitted that his whole case against McGouldrick hinged on the girl's testimony. Epstein told virtually the same story he did when arrested. He said Kraft jumped overboard from the New York-New Orleans ship Creole and he had no explanation for the bullet wound. He failed to give any testimony to support the theory of the prosecution that Kraft was killed by McGouldrick in a fight over the girl.

Chattanooga, Tenn., November 5.—(AP)—Help was asked of the fire departments here and at the army post at Fort Oglethorpe tonight by the town of Ringgold, Ga., 20 miles south of here, and it was reported that the whole business section of the town was on fire.

One company of the local fire department was sent in response to the call. The business section of Ringgold is confined to one street and is about two blocks in length.

BROOKHART FAILS TO NAME DRINKERS

Advertised Expose by Iowa Senator Proves Dud; Asks Removal of Secretary Mellon.

Washington, November 5.—(AP)—Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, thrust his heralded expose of "Wall Street booze parties" before a keenly attentive senate today in an atmosphere alive with suspense generated by the recurring furor over drinking among the nation's lawmakers.

His eye-witness account of a dinner held for some republican senators in the Willard hotel three years ago occupied more than an hour. Throngs in the galleries who had expected names of all the legislative guests to be revealed were disappointed, however. The Iowan mentioned none of his colleagues as having imbibed from the "beautiful silver hip flasks" which were the dinner favors.

The only word he gave about any senator's use or non-use of the attractive containers of "Scotch" was that Senator Smoot of Utah and the late Senator Gooding of Idaho had not availed themselves of the refreshment.

"As to whether the other boys did, they can answer for themselves," Brookhart told the tense senate. He named Walter J. Faby, New York broker, as the dinner host.

While the Iowan condemned alcohol in a high pitched voice as an "evil" and "poison," and in fast words told his story of Washington liquor parties and prohibition enforcement in general, another mid-western prohibitionist—Senator Howell of Nebraska—was busy preparing an address on his research into lawlessness in the capital.

Up in the gallery sat Judge William S. Kenyon, a member of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, and beside him there was Senator Morris Sheppard, of Texas, the "father" of the 18th amendment. Judge Kenyon later conferred with Brookhart; said he "enjoyed" the talk and remarked about the commission's interest in the situation.

Tomorrow Brookhart will answer a subpoena to go before the District of Columbia grand jury to tell his story of the 1928 Faby dinner. He promised the senate to answer every question put to him in the grand jury room, and said the three reporters for the Washington Times who are in jail because they would not name those from whom they said they had purchased liquor should have given the grand jury whatever information they had.

Telling his story of the "Wall Street booze party," Brookhart said

ELECTION RETURNS

FAVOR DEMOCRATS

Anti-Smiths Beaten 2 to 1 in Virginia; Kentucky Returns Party to Power in Legislature.

INDIANAPOLIS
NAMES DEMOCRAT

Walker Goes in by Half-Million Majority; All Chicago Races Give Democrats Victory.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. Smashing democratic victories in Tuesday's elections were recorded in Virginia and New York city with a repulse in Kentucky of the republican offensive to obtain control of the state legislature.

In addition the democrats made a net gain of five mayors in other New York cities; elected a mayor of Indianapolis, were leading in the Boston mayoralty contest and had a number of their candidates for municipal offices in Chicago in the lead.

The republicans saw their candidates in the only congressional election, that in the 21st (Manhattan) New York district, running far ahead of his democratic and socialist opponents on the face of early returns and also re-elected a republican mayor of Louisville by an unprecedented majority.

The anti-Smith democratic-republican coalition challenge to the democratic organization in Virginia was answered by a landslide for John Garland Pollard, gubernatorial candidate of the regulars. With almost half of the state still to be heard from at midnight, Pollard's majority had mounted to more than 40,000.

Hopeful of retaining the bulk of the advantage gained in the presidential election last November, the republican leaders, both state and national, were surprised by the tremendous vote which the democrats rolled up in the Old Dominion.

POLLARD VOTE TURNS TO LANDSLIDE. Richmond, Va., November 5.—(AP) John Garland Pollard, democratic candidate for governor, increased his lead over Dr. William Moseley Brown, anti-Smith and G. O. P. coalition candidate, to 52,113 votes when returns from 1,175 of the state's 1,641 precincts were tabulated tonight. The vote stood: Pollard 111,079; Brown 58,966. Professor Brown admitted defeat shortly after 10 o'clock.

The overwhelming victory of the democratic party was a surprise to veteran politicians on both sides, although Pollard headquarters had made predictions of "substantial majority" for the democratic gubernatorial aspirant.

The campaign preceding the election was the most aprilled since reconstruction days. Anti-Smith democrats, organized last year by Bishop James C. Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and other dry leaders, in opposition to the

The Rev. G. E. Clary, conference

Bishop Beauchamp met the cabinet and discussed ministerial appointments.

The evening session of the conference was featured by an address by Hon. O. A. Park, prominent Macon attorney. Mr. Park spoke on the “Religious Background of Georgia,” and described “the colony of Georgia as the greatest philanthropic and missionary enterprise of the 18th century.” Beginning with the early history of the movement which resulted in the establishment of Georgia, the speaker traced the gradual religious growth within the state. “In the first stores of the colony were 115 Bibles and Testaments, 116 books of common prayer, 72 psalters, 312 catechisms, 513 volumes on other religious subjects.” Mr. Park also described Georgia “as the first prohibition and free soil American,” these regulations having been placed in the laws of the early state.

Mrs. H. W. Pittman and Mrs.
E. P. Beatty represented the Woman's Missionary Society of the day.

At a later session of the board of missions Tuesday afternoon, reports were heard from all the evangelistic workers whose work is under the supervisions of this board. Dr. E. C.
Peters, formerly a missionary to China, and now president of Paine college at Augusta, presented the cause of educational work among the colored people. He described the work at Paine college as the “one outstanding piece of really effective inter-racial co-operation.” Following this Dr. J. A. Martin of the colored M. E. church, presented an appeal for the work among the deserving students among the colored people.

Dr. W. G. Cram general secretary of the general board of missions, spoke on the plans of the church missionary leaders. Attention was called to the general missionary conference to be held in Raleigh, N. C.,
December 12 to 14.

Stress was also laid upon plans for evangelistic work in rural sections.

VAN SWERINGEN PLANS ARE DEALT RUDE JOLT

Pennsylvania Railroad Buys Lines Sought by Brothers.

New York, November 5.—(AP)—The
New York Times today says that the Pennroad Corporation, an investment company, formed last April by the interests that control the Pennsylvania railroad, has bought control of the Pittsburgh & West Virginia railway, key line to eastern railroad consolidation.

This was acquired by purchase of the holdings of Frank E. and Charles F. Taplin, chairman and general counsel, respectively, of the West Virginia railroad. The deal was financed by a recent $50,000,000 stock offering in the form of voting trust certificates to stockholders of the corporation.

The exchange of control, accomplished with the greatest secrecy, throws an entirely new and unexpected element into the plans of the Cheapeake & Ohio and the Baltimore
Ohio railroads which oppose the Pennsylvania in the eastern consolidation contest.

Both the C. & O. and the B. & O.
named the Pittsburgh & West Virginia in petitions for merged systems filed early this year with the interstate commerce commission. They asked that they be permitted to share control of the road equally with the New York Central.

Since its organization, the Pennroad
Corporation has spent over $140,000, 000,000 in acquiring properties valuable to the Pennsylvania railroad. The importance of the P. & W. Va. lies in the fact that the West Virginia and the Western Maryland it provides a connection to Baltimore &
Norfolk.

While the new move of the Penn-road Corporation is looked upon as a blow directly at the Van Sweringgen brothers, it is pointed out that the Taplins have obstructed the merger of the Van Sweringens and the brothers in the past. They filed protests against the merger proposals of both the C. & O. and the B. & O.

Previous moves of the Pennroad Corporation have been directed mostly against the Baltimore & Ohio. It acquired the Canton Company, which controls a terminal in Baltimore that would be valuable to the B. & O. and the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton, formerly owned by Henry Ford, which was one of the roads the B. & O.
demanded in its merger proposal.

An immediate effect of the Penn-road control of the P. & W. Va., is expected to be the abandonment by the latter line of its plan to construct a branch from its Connettsville (Pa.)
extension to connect with the Donora Southern railroad. This extension was opposed by the Pennsylvania.

SENATOR WATSON SPENDS THE NIGHT AT LOUISVILLE, GA.

Louisville, Ga., November 5.—(Special)—Traveling by motor, Senator James E. Watson, republican senate leader of Indiana, was the guest of the Hotel Jefferson here Monday night.

The senator, with his wife and secretary, arrived Monday evening and except for a boyhood chum, would have passed as another paying guest.
Colonel Roy Barwick, local attorney and lifelong friend of Senator Watson, recognized him on walking into the hotel lobby.

The senator left Tuesday morning for Florida, where he has gone to take a vacation from political duties.

PRESIDENT HOOVER AND CHAS. DAWES JOIN RED CROSS

Washington, November 5.—(AP)— President Hoover was enrolled in the American Red Cross today by John Barton Payne, chairman of the organization.
After the president had renewed his membership, Mr. Payne enrolled Charles G. Dawes, ambassador to England, who is a guest at the White House.

BIRD RAISES BROOD IN WING OF PLANE FLOWN IN BATTLES

Roosevelt Field, L. I., November 5.
(United News).—Evidence that a bird had hatched and reared a family in the wing of a fighting plane used during the recent Mexican revolution was uncovered today when mechanics stripped the fabric from a biplane to make repairs.

The plane was flown during the revolution by Ted Enrich. It is now owned by William Cossens, of Glendale, Queens, and Frank Caputo, of Brooklyn.
Mechanics who found the bird's nest between the fabric said that several revolutionary bullets had pierced the wing in close proximity.

Government Drops Patronage Counts Against Howard

Jackson, Miss., November 5.—(AP)— Perry W. Howard, negro republican national committeeman from Mississippi, and eight other alleged federal patronage act offenders were freed from further prosecution of old charges today when, on advice from the United States department of justice six indictments were dismissed.
The dismissal was ordered by Federal Judge Edwin R. Holmes on the recommendation of United States Attorney Ben F. Cameron, Meridian.
acting on instructions from the department of justice at Washington.
The defendants were Charles Isaacs,
S. D. Redmond, A. M. Redmond, E.
L. Patton, George F. McClellan, William A. Miller, J. C. Tannehill, James
G. Buchanan and Howard.

BANKERS OPTIMISTIC OF FLORIDA FUTURE

Head of Barnett National Bank at Jacksonville Says
Slump at End.

Jacksonville, Fla., November 5.—
(AP)—Florida has reached the bottom of its economic slump, has rebounded a little and now is “looking forward to the most substantial period in its history,” Bion H. Barnett, chairman of the board of the Barnett National bank here, declared here today following his return from a summer vacation in Europe.

“We, as bankers, have great faith in the future,” said the head of one of Florida's largest banking houses.
“We are not over-optimistic, but optimistic. The state has been recovering from an old wound.”

“Now that Florida has reached the bottom of her fall, she should have a perfectly normal growth along substantial lines. Land values have returned to normal. Speculation in Florida property has been discontinued. Boom operators have fled from the state. Inflated mortgages have been foreclosed. We once more have a stable background for advancement, and meanwhile the eyes of the nation have been turned on us.”

Mr. Barnett drew an analogy between the real estate boom in Florida and the recent collapse of the New York Stock Exchange.

“Paper profits in both cases,” he said. “No fundamentally serious consequences will result from either collapse. Money was lost by the speculators, but wise investors will not be affected.”

Mr. Barnett returned here today after attending the opening of an affiliated bank yesterday at Cocoa.
Another affiliated bank recently was opened at Deland and Mr. Barnett said three or four other institutions were to be opened soon in other Florida cities, which now are without banks.

Edward C. Peters Honored By Fourth National Board

Edward C. Peters, one of Atlanta's most prominent citizens, Tuesday was presented with a handsome silver vase by directors of the Fourth National Bank, as one of the last official acts of that body prior to the merger with the Atlanta and Lowry, which takes place November 20.

Mr. Peters has been a member of the directorate of the Fourth National ever since the formation of that bank in 1890 and also will be a member of the board of the First National when the merger is completed. His services during his long connection were described as "priceless" in the inscription engraved on the vase.

The full inscription reads: "Presented to Edward C. Peters, with the affectionate esteem of his fellow directors in the Fourth National Bank of Atlanta. Since June 18, 1890, his qualities of character, his sound judgment and his devoted loyalty have been priceless assets of the Fourth."

Oldest in point of service, he is first in our affection. From his earliest business venture here, which was running the Atlanta Street Car Company—a horse car line—for his father, the late Richard Peters, Mr. Peters has been identified with developments and civic improvements without number. Richard Peters came here when Atlanta was known as Marietta and purchased large tracts of land which later proved to be exceedingly valuable.

As president of the Peters Land Company, he has handled large portions of these original tracts. He presented to the state the piece of property on which the first of the Georgia Tech building was erected and recently gave the city "Peters Park," a tract at Third, Fourth and Fowler streets.

One of the original owners of what is now Piedmont Park, he was largely instrumental in securing this playground for the city, and once again gave his share of the property without charge.

He was born in the old Peters home which was situated where the Terminal station now stands and for more than 40 years has lived at the southeast corner of Ponce de Leon and Piedmont avenues.

PEARSON TO ADDRESS ATLANTA BIRD LOVERS

Dr. Gilbert Pearson, America's leader in the field of bird protection, will address the Atlanta Bird Club and an audience of bird lovers at the Chamber of Commerce building at 7:30 o'clock at night, December 10, it was announced at the club's regular meeting Tuesday night.

Mr. Pearson is president of the National Association of Audubon Societies for the protection of wild birds and animals, and of the world committee for bird protection, which is made up of national sections organized by leading scientific and nature protective associations in 20 countries. Mr. Pearson also is chairman of the national committee on wild life legislation, and a member of the advisory board under the migratory bird treaty act, a committee on federal regulations regarding the shooting of migratory birds.

The subject of Mr. Pearson's address will be "Adventures in Bird Protection," a discussion of the tendency along protective lines both in America and abroad. Dr. Pearson will illustrate his talk with attractive slides of the United States reservation for birds, and the antelope sanctuary in Nevada. A supper preceding the lecture is being planned by the bird club.

The principal speaker at the Tuesday night meeting was Mrs. J. M. Oliver, a delegate to the 47th meeting of the American Ornithological Union. Mrs. Oliver gave the club an interesting resume of the sessions of the society in Philadelphia which lasted from October 21 to 25, and were featured by speeches from prominent bird specialists.

J. F. KING RETURNS

State Chemist Visits Mid-western Cities.

J. F. King, state chemist, returned to his office Tuesday after a ten-day visit to Chicago, St. Louis and Peoria. Mr. King was a member of a party inspecting plants manufacturing grain products, and grain elevators. Information gathered on the trip will be put to use in this state in so far as it is possible, he said.

Othello at Athens.

EDITOR REFUSES PROBATION OFFER IN CONTEMPT CASE

Jackson, Miss., November 5.—(P)—Frederick Sullens, editor of the Jackson Daily News, who in an editorial today refused to accept a "probation sentence" offered by Federal Judge Edwin R. Holmes in Sullens' conviction of contempt of court, was ordered by the judge to appear November 12 to receive sentence.

Sullens was found guilty yesterday by Judge Holmes of having been in contempt of court when he wrote an editorial at Meridian last March predicting the outcome of a federal patronage trial and defying the motives of the jury. The judge suspended sentence on good behavior but Sullens declined it.

"Probation does not mean that the judge of the court expects or designs to exercise any censorship over the editor of the Daily News," read the judge's verdict today.

"The evidence of a violation of a probation must prove a new offense beyond all reasonable doubt. Probation so implies a promise of an effort not to commit further violations of a similar character. If the defendant desires probation on these terms, he may have it. Otherwise let him appear in court for sentence next Wednesday, November 12, at 9 o'clock."

MOTHER FREED AFTER INQUEST INTO 2 DEATHS

St. Louis, November 5.—(P)—Mrs. Eugene Heppy was released from custody today after an inquest failed to throw any additional light on the deaths Sunday of her three-year-old twins, Delmer and Elmer, from an undetermined form of poisoning. The investigation, however, was continued.

The children became ill Saturday while with their mother on a visit to her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Dillow, near Cuba, Mo. Her other children, Rose, E. and Clarence, 15 months old, also became ill and are still in a serious condition in a hospital here.

The inquest was continued until next Friday to give Dr. R. G. H. Gradschil time to make a complete report on a chemical analysis of the viscera of the twins.

Both Sides Close Testimony In Trial of Son-in-Law Killer; Arguments to Be Heard Today

Clad in Black, Mother of Slain Youth Takes Stand as Final Witness for State.

Weatherford, Texas, November 5. (P)—Testimony in the trial of R. H. Hamilton, prominent Amarillo lawyer, for the slaying of his 21-year-old son-in-law, Tom Walton, Jr., was completed today after the defendant had testified in rebuttal and the mother of the young man had taken the stand for the state. Arguments are to begin tomorrow morning.

Less than two hours after Mrs. Grace Walton, clad in black, had told of her last few minutes with her son, Hamilton again took the stand to deny Mrs. Walton's testimony.

The state in rebuttal, after assailing the stories of Hamilton and two defense witnesses, called Mrs. Walton as its closing witness. District Attorney Edward Thomerson helped her to the witness stand.

Mrs. Walton testified that the morning of the killing her son came to the Tourist inn at Amarillo where she was manager and placed a telephone call. She told of hearing Walton say: "Is Judge Hamilton? This is Tom Walton."

Then, she said, her son left the inn and within half an hour she was at an Amarillo hospital beside his body, which was pierced by four bullets fired at him in Hamilton's Amarillo law office.

Hamilton took the stand only to deny state rebuttal evidence. A state witness, Mary Wright, Amarillo long distance telephone operator, had testified that "three or four days before" the homicide she handled a long distance call from R. H. Hamilton to his brother, Dexter Hamilton, Dallas lawyer.

After the connection had been made the 19-year-old witness testified she "pushed the key back and listened to see if they were talking all right." The Hamilton in Amarillo said, "What shall we do about the divorce?" The Hamilton in Dallas replied, "I wouldn't do anything about the divorce. Just keep quiet for a while." The Amarillo Hamilton said, "Well, I guess so," and then the Hamilton in Dallas said, "You had better watch your step or you'll get into something it won't be so easy to get out of."

Five Refute.
In refutation of that testimony the defense used five witnesses. Dexter Hamilton denied he had talked with his brother, as did C. C. Hamilton, another Dallas brother. Managers of the telephone company at Amarillo and Dallas said their files showed no record of the call, and the defendant himself said he had "not at any time" talked with either of his Dallas brothers about his daughter Theresa, Walton's 17-year-old bride, or about a divorce.

Hamilton also denied that anyone ever had called his office and said, "This is Tom Walton." He also attempted to impeach the testimony of R. E. Coon, public stenographer, who had said he was in Hamilton's office April 25 when Walton visited it. Hamilton, the first time he was on the stand, insisted he saw Walton only on March 9 and March 30.

Expert Testifies.

As the state concluded its case it brought from Dallas a handwriting expert, W. A. Weaver, who examined letters Mrs. Hamilton purportedly sent her husband from Austin telling him of threats Walton had made against him. Weaver said the envelopes were not addressed and the letters written, in some instances, with the same pen or the same kind of ink.

Walton's brief stay at the University of Texas, where he and Theresa were married secretly February 10 while both were students first was brought into the case by a state witness, Harry Blackwell, of Weatherford, testified he was Walton's "partner" in physics experiments. Walton, Blackwell declared, had a reputation as a "kind and inoffensive student."

District Judge J. E. Carter tonight had not decided how long he would allow for arguments.

LARGER LIBRARY BUILDING NEEDED,
MISS BAKER SAYS

Miss Tommie Dora Baker, librarian, addressed the Civitan Club at its luncheon Tuesday on the need of enlargement of the present Carnegie Library building. She pointed out that the structure had not been increased in size in the past 30 years while the number of books handled had increased tremendously. She requested the support of the club in a proposed request of $300,000 from the city for improvements.

Fair, Warmer Today, Predicts U. S. Observer

"Fair and warmer" is the rather bromide but highly acceptable forecast for Atlanta and vicinity today, according to C. F. von Herrmann, meteorologist.

The mercury in the official thermometer broke 40 for the second time this fall Tuesday morning with a minimum figure of 37, but today is scheduled to start its daily climb from the 42-degree mark. The day's maximum is scheduled to be approximately 60 degrees, 5 above Tuesday's high point.

Frost accompanying the chilly weather Tuesday morning was described as "heavy" but not killing.

Bond Issue Approved.

Washington, November 5. (P)—The St. Louis-Southwestern railway asked permission of the interstate commerce commission today to issue nominally $1,841,000 of first terminal and unifying mortgage gold bonds. The bonds would be held in the company's treasury without disposal or pledging until further authorization is obtained from the commission.

NEW SCHOOL BUS FOR INMAN PARK PUT INTO SERVICE

Responding to requests from citizens of the Inman Park section, the Georgia Power Company announced Tuesday that an additional special bus has been placed in operation to transport Girls' High school students living in that district between their homes and the school. This supplies bus service to a section of Atlanta which previously had been without it.

Routing of the new bus will be as follows: Leave Glimmer street garage 7:35 a. m. via Butler to Edgewood, Edgewood to Hurt, Hurt to Euclid avenue, Euclid avenue to Washita, Washita to Copeland avenue, Copeland avenue to Linwood avenue, Linwood avenue to Ponce de Leon avenue, Ponce de Leon avenue to Moreland avenue, Moreland avenue to McLenon avenue, McLenon avenue to Mayson avenue, Mayson avenue to La France street, La France street to Whiteford avenue, Whiteford avenue to Boulevard drive, Boulevard drive to Moreland avenue, Moreland avenue to East Fair street, East Fair street to South Boulevard, South Boulevard to Hansell street, Hansell street to high school, arriving 8:20 o'clock.

Afternoon trips from the high school will be made over the above route in the reverse direction. All buses leave the school at 2:12 o'clock.

Sent to Sanitarium.

Columbus, Ga., November 5. (P)—U. S. Henderson today was ordered committed to the state sanitarium at Milledgeville, when he pleaded insanity at his hearing for assault with intent to murder his wife with an axe three weeks ago. Mrs. Henderson was not seriously injured, suffered only a slight wound on the shoulder.

PLANS OF FARM BOARD OUTLINED BY WILLIAMS

Member of Board Speaks to Overflow Crowd at Athens
Tuesday.

Athens, Ga., November 5. (P)—Plans of the federal farm board to help farmers to help themselves were outlined here today by Carl Williams, board member representing cotton growers, in an address at the Georgia State College of Agriculture.

Speaking to an overflow crowd in the college auditorium, Williams said the farm board hoped to help farmers get fair prices for their products through orderly marketing.

The board, he said, was established primarily to aid the farmer, and not to take the place of all responsibility and effort. Control of the marketing of farm commodities by the farmer through a co-operative agency is the aim of the board and that purpose it will lend its money, he said.

"The federal farm board believes that whatever it does of a lasting nature to help remedy the complicated troubles of cotton must be based on a thorough organization of the farmers themselves. To get a fair price for cotton the flow of cotton to the market must be controlled and the seller must be as strong as the buyer."

Cause of Trouble.
"The principle of collective bargaining applies to every industry but agriculture. In industry and in labor both production and marketing are governed by the group mind. That is only beginning to be true in agriculture. Because production is a matter for a single farmer and his family, farmers have thought that marketing must also be. They have suffered in consequence."

"What chance have 2,500,000 individual cotton farmers against 10,000 buyers of cotton? The buyers are governed by the opinion of their group, but each farmer makes up his own mind, either on the basis of his own necessities or on the basis of the gambling instinct."

Readiness of the board to help farmers market their crops through co-operative organizations such as the Georgia Cotton Growers' Co-operative Association, was expressed by Williams. He said it would lend money on cotton in seasonal pools, thus helping to stabilize the price and to market it in an orderly process. He said the board realizes it cannot arbitrarily fix the price of any farm commodity, but could assist the farmer through proper marketing.

The $200,000,000 voted to the board by congress is to be lent to co-operative associations, he said, and the farm board expects to get the money back with interest.

To Lend Millions.
In the wheat states he said the board had already witnessed beginning of a movement which should result in control by co-operative agencies of 60 per cent of the wheat grown in this country and 40 per cent of coarse grain crops. By obtaining control of the marketing end of crops, organizations that represent farmers will be in a position to market farm commodities orderly, and without having to meet the competition of those in their own vocation, he explained.

"The federal farm board stands ready to lend millions for co-operative purposes but not one cent for competition," he said, explaining that generally, at present, farm crops are competing against each other with the buyer profiting. "Co-operation will give the growers at least an even break."

Williams was introduced by J. E. Conwell, president of the Georgia Cotton Growers' Co-operative Association. Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the college, urged farmers to co-operate with the federal board.

NEW DAY MASONIC LODGE IS GRANTED GEORGIA CHARTER

A new Masonic lodge, organized to enable Masons who, on account of working at night, are unable to attend meetings, ordinarily held at night, to attend a lodge and continue their active interest in Masonry, has been granted a charter by the grand lodge of Georgia and will be known as Day-Lite Lodge No. 125. It was announced Tuesday by the recently elected officers of the lodge. They are Orion T. Smith, worshipful master; George R. Hooks, senior warden, and J. A. Walker, junior warden.

The new lodge is among the first of its kind to be chartered in the United States, it is said. It is learned from Hugh W. Taylor, of Outhbert, grand master of Masons in Georgia, that Day-Lite Lodge No. 125 will be instituted and constituted on Wednesday, November 13, at 12 o'clock noon by W. S. Richardson, past grand master. The new officers will be installed at that time, it is said.

Receipts From Lease May Be Used To Furnish City Hall Furnishings

Probability that council will anticipate receipts from the lease of the present site of the Atlanta city hall in order to furnish and equip the new $1,000,000 city hall nearing completion at Washington and Mitchell streets loomed Tuesday following a reiteration of a ruling of City Attorney James L. Mayson that this procedure would be legal.

If rentals for the first four years were assigned to meet this expense $160,000 would be available.

The Carling Hotel Company, Inc., of which Carling Linkler is president, has agreed to pay $40,000 annually in rentals for the first ten years of the 65-year life of the lease.

Masonic Club To Meet.

The Atlanta Masonic Club will meet today at 12:30 o'clock, Parlor H, third floor, of the Piedmont hotel, according to announcement of John H. Woods, secretary.

KEY TO PRONUNCIATION

Easy Enough Now to Get Proper Twist on Difficult Words

When you start to use such a word as "abracadabra" and you are not quite sure of the correct pronunciation, just turn to the "Phonetic Key to Pronunciation" in the New World Dictionary, where there will be found a simple, easily understood "key" that will unlock the pronunciations of the most difficult words.

ARMY TO AID POSTAL EMPLOYEES DURING XMAS

Washington, November 5.—(AP)—The army is going to lend a hand to the postoffice department in handling Christmas mail. Secretary Good has instructed the commanders of corps areas to place all available motor trucks at the disposal of the postoffice department during the Christmas rush. National guard motor vehicles also may be used if Major General William E. Everson sees fit to lend them.

IRENE CASTLE HURT RIDING TO HOUNDS AT CHICAGO CLUB

Chicago, November 5.—(AP)—Col. Noble Brandon Judah, former ambassador to Cuba, and Mrs. Frederick McLaughlin, the former Irene Castle, were injured Sunday riding to hounds in the Onwentsia fox hunt, it became known today. Mrs. McLaughlin suffered a broken rib. Her hunter tripped, fell and rolled over her twice. The accident of Col. Judah occurred shortly afterward. His horse stumbled and threw him violently, and he was found unconscious on the ground. He will be confined to a hospital for several days, although the injuries were said to be not serious. Both Mrs. McLaughlin and Col. Judah have had severe falls before. Mrs. McLaughlin was dangerously hurt in 1928 when thrown by her hunter. Col. Judah's collarbone was broken a year ago during the Onwentsia hunting season. The former ambassador has a stable of famous racers and jumpers.

Waycross, Ga., November 5.—(Special).—A conference of high school principals and superintendents was held in the eleventh district was held in Waycross Monday. A. J. Hargrove, of Jessup, presided, and F. E. Barron, of Quitman, was secretary. The conference centered around the duties and responsibilities of a high school principal, taking in detail his preparation, his relation to the faculty, his classroom supervision, his relations with his students, and his relations with extra-curricular activities. Taking part in the discussions were Dr. Joseph S. Stewart, professor of secondary education at the University of Georgia; Edwin Aldine Pound, state supervisor of high schools; Miss Espie Campbell, state supervisor of economics; I. S. Smith and Miss Caro Lane, state supervisors; Guy Wells, president of the Georgia Teachers college at Statesboro; R. D. Eadie, of Brunswick; W. D. Cathcart, of Blackshear; Paul Long, of Baxley; S. H. Sherman, of Waycross; John Harris, of Folkston; Ralph Newton, of Waycross; Miss Nora Ennis, of Quitman; C. K. Curry, of Brunswick; Harold Saxon, of Quitman; E. D. Wilson, of Blackshear; J. L. Forther, of Douglas; J. H. Forbis, of Homer; F. E. Barron, of Quitman. Invited to address the conference as guests were A. G. Miller, former superintendent of the Waycross schools, who told of the educational work being done by the Masons of Georgia and H. A. Stallings, associate editor of the Waycross Journal-Herald, who spoke on the relation of the teacher to the community. The delegates were entertained at luncheon at the Hotel Ware. Ralph Newton, superintendent, and S. H. Sherman, principal of the Waycross schools, were hosts.

WAR CHAPLAINS WILL OFFICIATE ARMISTICE DAY

Washington, November 5.—(AP)—Parts of the same solemn ceremonial that marked the interment eight years ago of the body of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington will be repeated Armistice Day by some of the principals who conducted the original service.

Two of the chaplains who officiated in the services on November 11, 1921, Dr. Morris S. Lazaron, rabbi of the Baltimore Hebrew congregation, a World War chaplain, and Colonel John T. Axton, who for eight years was chief chaplain of the army, will present portions of the original ceremony. They again will be sounded by Staff Sergeant Frank Withey on the bugle he used in the burial service.

WOMAN SERIOUSLY HURT WHEN BUS CRASHES BRIDGE

Laurel, Miss., November 5.—(AP)—Physicians of a local hospital today fought for the lives of two women seriously hurt when an Old South Line automobile bus in which they were riding with ten other passengers and a driver broke through a bridge railing late yesterday and tumbled into a creek halfway between here and Meridian.

Mrs. F. A. Fowler, 26, of Birmingham, Ala., was the more badly injured. She and the other woman, a Mrs. Pennington, full name and address unknown, both received severe internal injuries.

The accident happened when the bus, traveling in the direction of Birmingham and Meridian, apparently developed steering trouble. Others hurt in the smash were: F. A. Harvey, 46, brickmason, Orlando, Fla., head and shoulder injured. Walter Hughes, 54, farmer, Montgomery, Ala., internal injuries. Leo Crapet, 34, merchant, Birmingham, arm and leg injured. Otto Schlubecker, 35, pipe setter, St. Petersburg, Fla., head injured. M. R. Johnson, 28, sawmill employee, Andalusia, Ala., severe bruises. Those injured were picked up by a passing motorist and brought to the local hospital.

BANK MUST KNOW ALL STOCKHOLDERS OF BORROWING FIRM

Sebring, Fla., November 5.—(AP)—Circuit Judge John Y. Byrd held today that it is incumbent upon directors and the loan committee of a bank to know the names of every stockholder of every corporation making a loan, as he upheld one of five indictments against officials of the defunct Highlands Bank & Trust Company of Sebring.

Judge Byrd quashed three of five indictments against six officials of the bank and upheld two counts of a fourth. The indictment upheld by Judge Byrd charged President J. H. Garst and Vice Presidents C. A. Skipper and F. T. Haskins with making excessive loans. The three men comprised the bank's loan committee.

Two counts of another indictment, which was upheld, charged Skipper, Cashier Walter L. Moyer and Assistant Cashier Myrtle Jack with making false entries in connection with the transfer of $80,000 to the bank's Philadelphia correspondent.

GOVERNMENT BUYS TRACT IN FLORIDA FOR REFORESTING

Lake City, Fla., November 5.—(AP)—Purchase of 78,403.53 acres of land in Columbia and Baker counties, by the United States government, to be used for reforestation and scientific preservation of timber, was made public today with the recording of a warranty deed to the lands in the office of the clerk of Baker county.

Consideration for the tract, which was sold by the Columbia Farm Lands Corporation, was $382,017.65. The deed was dated October 25, 1929. An additional 12,000 acres is to be added to the tract as soon as titles are perfected, it was learned.

FLORIDA CITY ENJOINED FROM ELECTRIC RATE CUT

Tampa, Fla., November 5.—(AP)—The city of Bradenton was enjoined temporarily in federal court today from reducing electric light and power rates 50 per cent. The writ was granted the Florida Light and Power Company, holders of a franchise, who declared it was making only about 3 per cent. City attorneys held the company investment was too heavy.

The fight is based on a city ordinance fixing rates passed under authority of a special bill adopted at the last session of the legislature. Company attorneys attacked the law also, claiming that if the city is successful others may follow the precedent and drive public utilities out of business.

WOMAN LIVES FOR 14 HOURS WITHOUT BREATH

New Orleans, November 5.—(AP)—Mrs. E. J. Picken, 34, lived 14 hours in a local hospital yesterday without breathing. Physicians performing a minor operation upon her early yesterday morning noticed that her breathing had ceased and began pumping oxygen into her lungs. Her heart beat steadily and normally until late last night, when the fight to save her life was lost. The doctors pronounced it one of the rarest cases in medical science.

POLL TAX ALLOCATION MAY BE REOPENED

Attorney-General Agrees To Give Matter Further Consideration.

The question of allocation of poll tax revenues to the state department of education, decided last week by Governor L. G. Hardman, may be reopened, it was learned Tuesday.

Governor Hardman's decision, in which it was held that the poll tax revenues were a part of the regular common school appropriation and not a separate and additional fund, as contended by Dr. M. L. Duggan, state superintendent of education, was founded on an opinion by Attorney-General George M. Napier.

Mr. Napier, it was learned Tuesday, had agreed to consider his opinion further just prior to the automobile accident last week in which he was injured. The accident has prevented his giving consideration to the question to date, but it is thought that he will give it his attention immediately after his return to his office, which is expected the latter part of this week.

In his decision Governor Hardman quoted opinions of the former state auditor and comptroller general on the question. Neither Tom Wisdom, present state auditor, nor William E. Harrison, present comptroller general, who at the time were erroneously credited with the opinion, were concerned with it.

Poll tax revenues annually amount to approximately $400,000. If Dr. Duggan's contentions were upheld it would mean the addition of that sum to the annual revenues of the common schools.

Zaharoff, Master of Finance, Dignified, Grave in His Home

BY HELEN AND OLIVE PARISH.

A unique and interesting study of the mode of living and character of Sir Basil Zaharoff, reported near death at his home outside of Paris, is given by Mrs. Eduard Clerk, an Atlanta woman, whose former neighbor once had a "close-up" of Europe's money baron whose prominence in the munitions industry made him a power behind the throne of more than one monarchy.

This intimate friend of Mrs. Clerk once had the opportunity of dining with Sir Basil at his castle near Montmartre. The young man, Jean-Claude Brodeur, is the son of the lieutenant governor and former marine minister of Quebec, and had lived in Quebec next door to Mrs. Clerk's father, Dr. Choquette, of the Canadian legation council. Knowing the Clerk and Choquette families very well, Mr. Brodeur gave an account of his dinner with the famous man of mystery.

When he was studying in Paris, in 1924, Mr. Brodeur was invited to dine with Sir Basil, and accepted the invitation in some trepidation and much wonder. The dining room proved to be an immense hall, lined with paintings by the old masters and carpeted with a rug as thick as four feet. The dinner was served by six lackeys and six butlers, on a service of solid gold. The plates, cups, and cutlery were of the same precious metal.

At one end of the enormous table sat Sir Basil, at the far end his secretary, and on the host's right sat the young Canadian, who was terrified lest he should scratch the solid gold plate with the solid gold knife.

According to Mrs. Clerk, the atmosphere remained frigid and dignified throughout the meal, despite the abundance of rare meats, fruits and wines. In the midst of this strained situation one of the lackeys approached the secretary and whispered something in his ear. The latter wrote a few words on a piece of paper, which the servant carried to the munitions king.

Sir Basil read the paper, frowning slightly, and his head, and, with his black eyes glanced aside, he wrote these words in French on one of his calling cards:

"Sir Basil Zaharoff, having no longer a voice, cannot sing."

Mr. Brodeur later learned that some persons were trying to extort money from Sir Basil and that this enigmatic reply was his refusal to be "blood-sucked."

Sir Basil began work as a hotel guide in his native Greece, then became fireman with a hose company, and was later a money lender and merchant in woolens. At the age of 28 he entered the munitions business, in which he has become one of the richest men Europe ever produced.

He has been given awards of merit by 31 governments and has sat on the boards of more than 300 industrial concerns. Since the death of his wife, the widow, Duesse de Villafraanca, Sir Basil has been unconsolable, and his dejection is said to have been the cause of his current illness.

Dr. Walter Binns, NAMED ON STATE WELFARE BOARD

Dr. Walter P. Binns, of LaGrange, was appointed a member of the state board of public welfare by Governor L. G. Hardman Tuesday. He succeeds Dr. J. G. Harrison, of Macon, resigned.

Dr. Binns is a member of the board of trustees of Mercer university; chairman of the committee on co-operative programs of Georgia Baptists; member of the annuity board of the Southern Baptist convention; former president of the George B. Y. P. U., and last year was president of the Mercer Alumni Association.

Dr. Harrison resigned the office to become a member of the state board of education.

COLONEL THOMAS, ARMY RECRUITING CHIEF, PROMOTED

Lieutenant Colonel C. O. Thomas, Jr., army recruiting officer for the Atlanta area, Tuesday received notice of his promotion to full colonel.

Colonel Thomas has been in military service more than 30 years. He is a cavalry officer and has been in Atlanta since last December.

Immediately on receiving notice of his promotion and the congratulations of the men serving under him, Colonel Thomas was called to a 14-inch wooden desk sign which read: "Lieutenant Colonel C. O. Thomas, Jr." Schooled in governmental economy, the colonel directed that he be furnished with a saw and a few minutes later a new sign, reading, "Colonel C. O. Thomas, Jr.," appeared.

RAMSEY OUTLINES DUTY OF PARENTS OF SCHOOL PUPILS

What parents can do at home to contribute to the cause of successful education should be foremost in the minds of members of the parent-teacher association, declared Ralph L. Ramsey, supervisor of Fulton county school, in an address before the Pryor Street P. T. A. Tuesday night.

Mr. Ramsey's talk was the principal feature of a "Dad's Night" program, and the meeting was described as one of the best of the year. He spoke on "Worthy Home Membership in the P. T. A."

He declared that a clear understanding of what education means is necessary before parents really can serve as co-educators. An educated person, he said, is not one with a number of degrees but one who has been fitted through an education to experience for the experience of living.

BOYS, 12 AND 13, HELD UNDER BOND ON PROHIBITION CHARGE

Nathaniel Williams and Nathaniel Ingram, 12 and 13, respectively, paid visits to United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith here Tuesday in company with officers of the law who charged they were both engaged in the practice of delivering whisky to various points throughout the city.

Nathaniel No. 1, it was declared, was peddling merrily down the street with a canvas bag thrown around his shoulders in the most approved messenger boy fashion. Two detectives happened to pass in a car, however, and a mere glance was sufficient to send the "messenger boy" scurrying into an alley. Both the boy and the canvas bag were captured, officers stated, and the latter yielded one and a half gallons of the contraband fluid.

A similar fate overtook Nathaniel No. 2 about the same time, according to testimony before Judge Griffith, and both were bound over to the grand jury under bonds of $300 following their preliminary hearings.

FLAG OF GEORGIA GIVEN OGLETHORPE BY MRS. J. M. HIGH

A flag of the state of Georgia, ten feet in length, the gift of Mrs. J. M. High of this city, will fly from one of Oglethorpe university's four flagpoles at every future football game in Hernando stadium.

According to an announcement made by Dr. Jacobs Tuesday afternoon, the handsome banner will be used for the first time on Saturday, November 9, when the Petrels play Manhattan college of New York.

From the four flagpoles crowning the university's new stadium will wave the American flag, a pennant of Oglethorpe, one of the visiting team, and the Georgia flag donated by Mrs. High. Her most recent gift to the university was the sum of $1,000 to be used in the installation of the tower chimes, which are said to be the finest in this part of the country.

Sigma Chi Head To Be Honored By Local Alumni

A. P. Thomson, grand consul of the Sigma Chi Fraternity, will visit Atlanta today and Thursday and will be honor guest at a dinner to be given at 6:30 o'clock tonight by the Atlanta Alumni chapter of Sigma Chi at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

The master of ceremonies will be Professor R. R. Paty, of Emory university, who is supervisor of the Sigma Chi chapters at the University of Georgia, Emory, Georgia Tech and University of Florida. Hamilton Douglas, Jr., prominent Atlanta attorney, national officer of the fraternity, and a close friend of Mr. Thomson, will introduce the visitor.

Mr. Thomson is a graduate of the University of Southern California, having been first honor man in his class and a member of Phi Beta Kappa. After leaving school he was a newspaper reporter in Los Angeles and later was admitted to the bar. He now is one of the best known lawyers on the west coast.

Mr. Thomson will leave Atlanta Thursday night for Columbia, S. C., where he will supervise the installation of a Sigma Chi chapter at the University of South Carolina.

Rev. Moor Will Give Talk This Afternoon On Religion, Medicine

At this afternoon's regular 4 o'clock lecture at St. Luke's Episcopal church, Peachtree and Alexander streets, the Rev. N. R. High Moor will speak on "Religion and Medicine." This will be the sixth lecture in the series, "Religion and Life." The lecture will last 30 minutes.

M'ELREATH AND RITCHIE BATTLE IS REVEALED

One-Blow Fight Bared in Statement Read to Judge Thomas.

A one-blow fight between Walter McElreath, a lawyer, and E. R. Ritchie, assistant superintendent of Atlanta schools, on Monday afternoon at Hoke Smith school was related Tuesday in Fulton superior court in a statement read by Mr. McElreath before Judge E. D. Thomas.

The blow was passed when the attorney and assistant superintendent met with W. C. Groenier, of Columbus, Ohio, a member of the committee appointed by President Hoover to make the national plumbing code for the Bureau of Standards, at the school to conduct tests of plumbing fixtures in connection with a suit brought by Solicitor General John A. Boykin to restrain the city from installing a certain type of fixture in three junior high school additions, the court was told.

Mr. McElreath's statement alleged

NEGRO RELIGIOUS WORKERS FINISH TRAINING SCHOOL

More than 100 church and Sunday school workers attended the third annual negro training school held last week in Central Methodist church, this city, under the auspices of the Methodist board of education.

Classes were conducted on the program of religion, the Old Testament, methods of young peoples' work, pageantry and dramatics, and primary administration. Prof. Willis J. King, of Gammon Theological seminary, was dean of the faculty, which included seven members. The school was considered quite successful, and it is the plan to hold a similar session in Atlanta every year.

Nervous Headaches Yield to Capudine

Overtaxed nerves cause nearly all headaches as well as other pains, such as pains in the back and sides, women's pains, and neuritic and rheumatic pains. To relieve headaches and other nerve pains and to soothe the tense nerves nothing gives such quick results and such delightful comfort as Capudine. Being liquid, Capudine acts almost instantly—much quicker than tablets and powders. It contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach.

For over 30 years Capudine has proven a joy and comfort to millions who have suffered from headaches, nervousness and other nerve pains. At drug stores; 30c and 60c sizes.—(adv.)

New Bus-Street Car Route To Decatur Gets Approval; Cut in Gas Rate Forecast

Two Decisions of Importance to Atlanta Handled Down by Public Service Commission.

Two decisions of importance to Atlanta were handed down by the Georgia public service commission Tuesday. They are:

A reduction in gas rates was forecast for November 25, of the Atlanta Gas Light Company to show cause why their rates should not be revised on January 1.

Direct bus and street car service between Atlanta and Decatur, with transfer privileges and a 10-cent fare between the two cities, will be inaugurated by the Georgia Power Company at 7 o'clock this morning, on the authority of an order of the commission.

The citation, it was stated, was founded on the coming of natural gas into Georgia at the beginning of the new year. A downward revision of the rates is contemplated, members of the commission said, as natural gas is cheaper everywhere than artificial.

Begin Operation Today. The bus line connecting the termini of its Emory university and Ponce de Leon car lines with Decatur was authorized by the commission after a hearing in the morning.

Operations will begin this morning, it was announced, with busses leaving each end of the line on an hourly schedule. Next week, or as soon as arrangements can be made, a 30-minute schedule during the rush hours, from 7 to 9 o'clock in the morning and 2 to 7 o'clock in the afternoon and evening, will be inaugurated. Service will be given until 11 p. m.

Opposed by Inter-City. J. C. Steinmetz, of the Inter-City Company, pointed out that the commission had prevented his company from operating busses from Atlanta to Decatur on the ground that they would compete with the street car lines already established.

Leon O'Neal, representing the Decatur Chamber of Commerce, said that the people of Decatur would prefer a continuous trip into Atlanta on busses, but that if they could not get that they would prefer to have bus and street car service, with transfer privileges between them, than to have to pay separate fares on each.

Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power Company, who presented the petition, stated that the Inter-City Company is rendering inadequate service, and is not in a position to maintain such a service as the power company already has. He declared that the commission should protect an established and elaborate transportation system from inroads and interference.

On outward trips street car passengers using 7 1/2-cent tickets must pay an additional 3 cents, and those paying 5 cents must pay another 5 cents to transfer to the busses. On inward trips a 10-cent fare will be paid, and a transfer given without costs.

President Elected. Boston, November 5.—(AP)—Thomas Nelson Perkins, chairman of the executive committee of the Boston & Maine railroad, today was elected acting president of the road at a meeting of the executive committee, held after the funeral of President George H. Hanauer.

ZONING CHANGES TO BE CONSIDERED BY CITY PLANNERS

The following petitions for changes in Atlanta's zoning ordinances will be considered by the city planning commission at its next regular meeting slated for 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

To change from apartment house district to business district, property located at the northeast corner of Henry and Broomhead streets, and known as 348 Henry Street, N. E.

To change from dwelling house district to apartment house district, property beginning 170 feet north of Jones avenue and extending north 75 feet on the west side of Griffin Street, N. W.

To change from dwelling house district to apartment house district, property situated on the south east corner of Boulevard S. E., and Rosalia street, extending 50 feet on Boulevard and 190 feet on Rosalia Street, S. E.

To change from apartment house district to business district, property at 448 Angier avenue, beginning 85 feet east of Park Way Drive, on the north side of Angier Avenue, N. E.

PEANUT GROWERS PLAN CO-OPERATIVE BODY AT CORDELE

Cordele, Ga., November 5.—(AP)—Preliminary plans were made here today for organization of a local peanut growers co-operative association.

The action was taken at a meeting of growers in response to an appeal by W. W. Webb, field marketing agent of the state department of agriculture, for an organization which will give the growers the benefit of federal farm aid in marketing the crop. More than a score of growers pledged about 3,000 tons of peanuts to start the movement.

RESERVE BANK LAUDED FOR ISOLATING CRASH

Credited With Keeping
Stock Crash From Other Business.

Washington, November 5.—(AP)—Credit again is given in official Washington to the federal reserve banking system for what is regarded by those who have analyzed the situation as the isolation of the recent financial crisis to the stock market itself.

The present situation is likened in these quarters to that of 1907-08 with the difference that then the crisis extended to the business and financial fabric of the country because there was no federal reserve system to intervene to keep down interest rates when large quantities of capital were withdrawn from the speculative center.

As viewed in official circles the ultimate result of the recent phenomenon of the stock market will be the release of capital in large quantities for the bond and mortgage market and the creation of a considerable reserve for general business.

It was explained that many states and municipalities have been holding up their bonds because of an inability to obtain what were regarded as fair prices and that with the general wave of speculation diminished more advantageous markets for these securities would be presented with an extension in public improvements and a consequently increased market for labor.

MRS. KIMBROUGH'S FUNERAL IS HELD AT BARNESVILLE

Barnesville, Ga., November 5.—(Special).—Funeral services for Mrs. Eva Kimbrough took place Sunday afternoon in the new auditorium of the Sixth District A. and M. school.

Rev. Henry T. Brookshire and Dr. Marvin Williams had charge of the services. Mrs. Kimbrough was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Paschal, of Geneva, and the widow of the late Henry Kimbrough, of Talbotton. She is survived by a son, R. P. Kimbrough; a daughter, Eva; four sisters, Mrs. P. A. Morris, of Atlanta; Mrs. F. B. Chandler, Marietta; Mrs. J. C. Allogotti, Orangeburg, S. C.; Mrs. Minnie Jervis, of Hartford, Conn., and one brother, R. A. Paschal, of Union Springs, Fla.

Two Face Liquor Violation Charge In Columbus Court

Columbus, Ga., November 5.—(AP)—E. C. Johnson and Amos Allen, today faced charges of violating the prohibition law, as a result of the seizure of 28 gallons of liquor and two automobiles yesterday by county police.

In the first seizure Ernest Rodgers and Johnson were arrested. The latter was given a preliminary hearing in municipal court and held for superior court under $350 bond. The case against Rodgers was dismissed when Johnson claimed the liquor and the car.

Allen was arrested after 15 gallons of liquor was found in his roadster. He is awaiting hearing in municipal court.

County police also destroyed two stills of 800 and 100 gallons capacity yesterday and seized five gallons of liquor, but no arrests were made.

MANCHESTER PLEA FOR SECOND TRIAL TO HIGHEST COURT

Macon, Ga., November 5.—(AP)—Attorneys for Earl Manchester, 19-year-old convicted slayer of James W. Parks, 18, in a purported "insurance murder plot," were preparing a bill of exceptions to the Georgia supreme court today, after Judge H. A. Mathews, of the Macon circuit, denied the youth a new trial.

Manchester is under death sentence for killing Parks, which, in a formal confession, he said was provoked by persuasions of Mrs. J. C. Powers, their landlady, in the offer of $1,000 of $14,000 she hoped to collect on life insurance policies she held on Parks.

the slaying, which occurred last spring, and also is under sentence to be electrocuted.

Manchester's appeal for a new trial, heard yesterday, was on three grounds, alleged inadmissibility of certain testimony, discovery of new evidence, and alleged inflammatory arguments of Solicitor Charles H. Garrett.

Judge Mathews yesterday also denied a motion in the case of Lucius Jolly, a negro condemned for the slaying of his wife.

Consuming Eternities Of Power To Produce Millions Of Dollars

Last year alone the industries of Georgia consumed 979,326,000 kilowatt hours of power in turning out products valued at more than $600,000,000.

When industry assumes such proportions, banks must follow suit—for example, the Citizens and Southern National, which is constantly increasing its capital structure and its state-wide facilities in order to meet the credit requirements of industrial giants and in order to serve every phase of industry wherever located in Georgia.

WOMAN CANDIDATE IN BEN HILL RACE FOR SHERIFF'S JOB

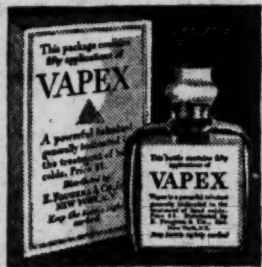

Fitzgerald, Ga., November 5.—(AP) Ben Hill county may be the first in Georgia to have a woman sheriff. Mrs. E. H. Dornier, widow of the sheriff of this county, has just announced for the unexpired term of her husband. Entries for the office closed today and the election will be held November 20. Mrs. Dornier is opposed by two men, Wiley Williams and G. E. Ball, both of Fitzgerald.

Mrs. Dornier, member of a prominent family of Ben Hill county, has been in charge of clerical work in the sheriff's department for 12 years.

Georgia School Leaders Discuss Financial Crisis; No Decision Is Reached

State Board Reviews
Laws Allowing Government To Make Loans for Educational Purposes.

Georgia's official reaction to the threatened financial crisis in the public school system remained a state secret Tuesday night after the board had met, considered the problem and adjourned without taking action or making an announcement.

Dr. M. L. Duggan, state superintendent of schools, and members of the board of education declined at the conclusion of the meeting to discuss the situation, referring all inquiries to Governor L. G. Hardman, ex-officio chairman of the board.

Governor Hardman, beyond the statement, "I am investigating," refused to make any announcement of his plans to meet the situation. He declined to indicate in what direction his investigations were leading him; nor would he reveal when an official announcement could be expected.

"Too much has been said already," he stated.

Dr. M. L. Duggan, reiterating his former statements that the situation was serious, admitted that the matter had come before the board for discussion, but said he did not feel at liberty to divulge the nature of the discussion, nor what Governor Hardman had told the board of his plans.

"I am anxious to obtain results," he said, "and do not care to hazard them by a premature statement." Other members of the board were equally reticent.

Informally it was learned that the board reviewed laws which would allow Governor Hardman to borrow up to $3,500,000 for educational purposes. Present laws have utilized a large portion of this amount, it was stated, but $836,000 remains unutilized. The governor also has authority to borrow an additional $200,000 for emergency purposes, if he should choose to consider the present situation an emergency, it was said.

The board also heard an appeal by J. T. Culbreth, former superintendent of education of Echols county, from an order of the Echols county board of education dismissing him. The appeal was originally carried to Dr. Duggan, who affirmed it, and was later taken to the state board as a whole. The dismissal, it was said, was based on a discrepancy found by a state auditor.

The board decided the case, but reserved announcement of its decision until today, when a final decision will be made public.

TWO OHIO YOUTHS INDICTED IN MACON FOR STEALING AUTO

Macon, Ga., November 5.—(AP) John Howell, 21, and William Ellison, 19, said to be residents of Ohio, were indicted today by a federal grand jury, on charges of transporting a stolen automobile. They were arrested in Jacksonville, Ga., this morning, arraigned before a United States commissioner and immediately indicted.

With the two youths was a 22-year-old woman who claims to be the wife of Howell.

According to the story told the federal officers the two boys stole the automobile in Phillipsburg, Ohio, and en route south stopped for a short time in Central City, Ky. There, it was said, Howell fell in love with the girl, marrying her immediately. Since then the trio has toured Florida, and were en route north when arrested.

Without funds the girl, too, was carried to jail, where she will be held until the federal officers get funds to return her to her home in Kentucky. She gave the name of Mrs. Rosa Howell.

There were 88 indictments returned by the grand jury today. Eighty of them were for violating the national prohibition act.

LAW ENFORCEMENT FORCES 'SHINERS TO QUIT WHISKY

Tusculum, Ala., November 5.—(AP) Declaring they were "through" as a result of a vigorous law enforcement campaign which has been under way in this section for several weeks, a number of moonshiners appeared at the courthouse here yesterday and presented Coroner O. P. Romine, acting sheriff, with their stills and all distilling paraphernalia. The racket, they said, had become too dangerous to continue profitable.

The "clean-up" campaign being conducted under the direction of operatives from the office of Attorney General Charlie C. McCall has resulted in a grand jury indictment and subsequent resignation of Sheriff J. F. Keeton, dismissed by Governor Bibb Graves of 100 county deputy sheriffs and routing of a justice of the peace. Romine is serving as sheriff until a permanent appointment is made by the governor.

The grand jury still is in session, investigating affairs of the county.

MUSIC CLUB GIVES SECOND MUSICAL OF SEASON TODAY

The second of the season's morning musicals presented by the Atlanta Music Club will be given at 10:30 o'clock this morning in the auditorium of Wesley Memorial church.

The program, as arranged by Mrs. Charles Chalmers, chairman, is of exceptional brilliancy, presenting Mrs. Phelps Ensign, dramatic soprano, of the Metropolitan Opera, and Franciszek Zachara, Polish pianist of the faculty of Breunau college-conservatory, Gdansk, an artist new to the club and to Atlanta.

Mr. Zachara's work has attracted favorable comment of music critics throughout the country, and his Atlanta debut is awaited with interest in music circles.

Coffee Magnate Sees Gigantic Food Merger For Future America

New Orleans, November 5.—(AP) A gigantic food merger for America, forecast here today by Felix Coste, retiring manager of the National Coffee Roasters' Association, and his proposal for a more liberal release of quality coffee from Brazil brought the annual coffee roasters convention face to face with Mr. Coste's desire to merge all roasted coffee interests "right now in preparation for taking our full part in the larger food association that is bound to come."

The projected coffee merger, which Mr. Coste said should include "all associations of and all roasted coffee distributors and all associations and all manufacturers' products kindred to the roasted coffee business," was urged in the annual report of the manager and submitted to a conference committee for recommendations to be acted on in the general convention sessions.

BROWN FINE REDUCED
Jonesboro Man Allowed To Pay $100.

Governor L. G. Hardman Tuesday concurred in a recommendation of the state prison board and reduced a fine given J. S. Brown, Jonesboro filling station operator, from $500 to $100.

Brown was given a suspended fine of $500 when he pleaded guilty to a violation of the Sunday sales laws. The prison board, after a hearing, held that the fine was excessive.

OLD VOLCANO BRINGS DEATH AND HORRORS

Scores Are Swallowed in Seething Stream of Lava.

Mexico City, November 5.—(AP) Stories of inhabitants fleeing from a six-foot high lava stream pouring from the volcano Santa Maria were received today by Guatemala Charge d'Affaires Julio Gomez Robles. Some of them dropped in their tracks, asphyxiated by sulphur gas, to be swallowed up by the molten rock.

His dispatches from Guatemala City said that the inhabitants of Masatenango and nearby towns were alarmed by underground rumblings on Saturday which were followed by the eruption and earthquakes. The lava stream then swept over the countryside, destroying everything in its path, and overtaking many of the fleeing residents. The whole volcanic zone of the department of Suchite Pequez suffered from the effects.

Up to this afternoon 50 bodies had been recovered but many more persons were believed to have died and to have been cremated by the molten rock. The rain of ashes was said to be continuing and covering the whole department of Suchite Pequez and neighboring territory, destroying coffee and other crops. The government was rushing aid by every means possible, including airplanes.

Besides the casualties thousands of persons were rendered homeless and sought refuge in the villages and towns just outside the volcanic zone. Hospitals in those communities were crowded with injured and by many suffering from the gasses emitted by the volcano.

ERUPTION BREAKS OUT WITH RENEWED FORCE

Guatemala City, November 5.—(AP) The volcanic eruption of Santa Maria which had dwindled last night broke out with renewed force early today. It was estimated that nearly 300 had

FIFTY NATIONS MEET TO DISCUSS FOREIGN BUSINESS

Paris, November 5.—(AP) The representatives of 50 nations met here today to consider the text of a treaty by which discriminations against foreigners established in business in various countries might be abolished.

The conference, held under the auspices of the League of Nations and presided over by Albert Devez, of Belgium, opened with a general discussion of the situation of foreigners. The general trend of the discussions was that a treaty was necessary, though some of the delegates maintained that complete understanding on such questions could not be attained without bilateral agreements.

Asphalt Explodes
At Refining Plant, Killing One Worker

Dreestman, La., November 5.—(AP) A violent explosion early tonight rocked the big Mexican Petroleum Company refinery here and started a fire that threatened the entire plant. One plant worker, Alex Rose, negro, of St. Rose, La., was killed when two 5,500-barrel tanks of asphalt exploded. No other employees were near the spot at the time.

The flames were extinguished with steam and chemicals a short while after the blast occurred. An investigation of the cause of the explosion was begun.

been killed and 200 injured although only 37 bodies had been recovered. The extreme heat in the vicinity of the crater and lava streams made it impossible to determine with exactitude the damage still being done. It was reported that bodies of persons in the flow yesterday still could be seen on the top of the moving streams of lava. A body of a man was seen on a tree branch hanging over one of the streams. His escape had apparently been cut off and he died from the heat pouring up from beneath.

AMERICAN DELEGATION LAUDED FOR AGREEMENT

Optimistic Feeling in International Bank Circles After Approval.

Baden-Baden, Germany, November 5.—(AP) Great credit is being given the American delegation to the conference on the Bank for International Settlements for the draft of a trust agreement which has been approved in principle by its plenary session.

The new draft which was presented has resulted in a more optimistic spirit in conference circles than has existed in the past fortnight.

"The American delegation deserves great credit for the splendid draft of the trust agreement," said Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German Reichsbank.

It is now hoped that the conference may adjourn Saturday. The rumor persists that the New York Stock Exchange situation has had something to do with the sudden burst of speed in the work here in that Europe confidently expects the American market to be able to absorb German annuity bonds more easily "now that the stock speculation fever is broken."

At today's meeting of the committee on delivery in kind a provisional agreement was reached. In the ensuing discussion

Prep Teams Emulate Colleges, Producing Numerous Upsets

LOCAL ELEVENS HAVE BIG PART IN HAPPENINGS

Savannah High Scores With Startling 6-0 Defeat of Smithies.

By Roy White.

College football is not alone in a startling and unheard-of season of upsets. Prep football teams all over Georgia are experiencing one of their most uncertain seasons. And local teams have been playing a part in those upsets.

An unsuspected 6-0 defeat was handed Tech High, southern prep champion last year, by Savannah High Saturday afternoon in Savannah. The Smithies' goal is still uncrossed but the crossbars and goal posts failed to ward off two field goals from the toe of Captain Paul Hart, of the Savannah team.

Savannah High received a beating at the hands of Athens High several weeks ago and two weeks ago was beaten 26 to 6 by G. M. A. at Spiller field. G. M. A. had previously been beaten 7 to 0 by a Tech High team which had three regulars out of the game, including Heavy Hammond, all prep quarterback.

SURPRISE. Another surprising defeat in prep circles was Madison Aggies over Monroe Aggies by an overwhelming score last Saturday. It was the first time in four years that a G. I. A. team with the exception of Riverside, has beaten a Red Barron coached team.

Riverside, always rated along with the best in the state, was beaten unmercifully by G. M. C. last Saturday.

Tex Would Be Proud

JACK SHARKEY

Sharkey Bears Out Faith of Rickard

Late Promoter Always Believed Boston Jack Was Real Fighting Man.

By Robert Edgren.

New York, November 5.—It's too bad Tex Rickard died last January. For a long time Tex, full of faith in Jack Sharkey's ability to make good, waited and planned for the event. And now that Tex isn't here Sharkey has done what Tex always said he could do.

Perhaps knocking out Tommy Loughran wasn't a great feat in itself. Loughran never has been a great fighter. Just a good light-heavyweight, with cleverness enough to come back after being nearly whipped, and win decisions. He did that with Lonski and several others. He was just far enough ahead at the finish to get the decision. There never has been a great and popular champion without a punch—and Loughran has no punch. That made it practically impossible for him to go into the heavyweight class with a chance to become champion, although he seemed to think the trip to the title would be easy. At 180-120 pounds Loughran was less effective than a light-heavyweight, because the extra weight didn't give him more strength or punch, and did not hurt his speed.

There have been just a few fighters who could ignore the weight limit, Bob Fitzsimmons, Joe Gans, Joe Walcott, Jack Dillon—all heavy sluggers. Loughran isn't in that class. He could get along as far as boxing cleverness could carry him—and that isn't among the heaviest. Tommy may "still think" Sharkey is a bum fighter—but he's wrong.

GOOD MAN. Sharkey's career will have to be checked up in figuring just how good a heavyweight the Boston Gob is. Jack was a reckless fighter before he got into the big money. He beat Godfrey and Wills, the two biggest black fighters—men who had no other white heavyweights dared to tackle. He flattened Maloney in slam bang fashion that made him look like another Dempsey. Then he fought Dempsey. "Sharkey thought, like everyone else, that Dempsey was a has-been after the Tunney defeat at Philadelphia. He went into the ring full of contempt for Dempsey's fighting ability. He rushed at Dempsey from the start, and he certainly looked like a champion that night. He nearly murdered poor Jack in the first two rounds.

In Sharkey's corner his seconds urged him to take his time and try to get over a knockout, for Dempsey seemed almost a beaten man. Sneering, Sharkey said: "Don't bother me. I'm going to show this sucker up."

JACK CAME BACK. But little later Dempsey's grim courage, his way of taking what came, ignoring what came, and fighting steadily to take the lead, began to count. Dempsey's heavy body blow slowed Sharkey up. Sharkey fought like a streak—in spots. Then he was knocked out—and absolutely fairly knocked out, in spite of claims to the contrary.

But being knocked out by Dempsey was no disgrace. Dempsey still had a spark of the fighting fire that had made him a great champion. He showed it later in the seventh round at Chicago.

For all that, the defeat seemed to break Sharkey's spirit. He tried to match Tunney. He tried to match Sharkey along to a championship fight with Tunney. It almost broke Rickard's heart as a promoter when Sharkey merely drew with slow Tom Heene, and lost a decision to Johnny Risko.

EVASION BY GENE. Rickard still tried to match Sharkey with Tunney. But Gene was smart. He sat close to the ring and saw what Sharkey did to Dempsey that night, in the first two rounds. He knew Sharkey had in him the possibility to be extremely dangerous. And Gene was a fully developed business man by the time he became champion. He refused Sharkey in spite of Rickard's arguments. "Sharkey won't draw," said Tunney. "I'll fight Heene. He has been winning fights and he'll help the gate." Rickard argued, but Tunney insisted upon Heene, and had his way. He couldn't lose, financially. He had his guarantee. It was Rickard and his backers who paid a loss of approximately a quarter of a million on that fight—the fight the public knew was no match.

Funny, when Sharkey's chance to fight Tunney for the title had been thrown away by his poor showing against Heene and Risko, Sharkey suddenly came to life and knocked out Jack Delaney, former light-heavy champion, in a punch.

That was an awful shock to Rickard. He said with something as near bitterness as he ever showed, that it was just like Sharkey to knock somebody out when it was too late to do anything. Rickard said Sharkey was Tunney-Heene—no match at all—and had to go through with it because Tunney had been paid a large advance upon signing a contract several months before.

END OF THE ROAD. It has been said, and repeated until everyone took it for truth, that the Sharkey-Delaney fight was "framed" for Delaney to take a quick knockout, and that Delaney came in fat and untrained. But the sudden knockout Sharkey handed Loughran—almost as sudden and unexpected as the E. O. he slipped Delaney, throws that story in the discard. Sharkey always could whip a good light-heavyweight. He had too much class—too much speed and punch, for lighter men. Delaney was no more "fat and untrained" than Loughran. Both were trying to be heavyweights, and thought extra weight—even if it was fat—made them heavyweights.

KENTUCKIANS SEE VICTORY OVER ALABAMA

Coach Gamage and His Wildcats Confident of Winning Saturday.

Lexington, Ky., November 5. (Special.)—Kentucky's Wildcats, their squad bolstered by the return of most of those who had been on the injured list during the past week and their spirits at a peak following their defeat of Clemson last Saturday, settled to work here this afternoon to prepare to put Alabama on the spot Saturday afternoon at Montgomery.

The Wildcats have come to the point where they believe in themselves. And seriously, too. Harry Gamage, mentor, has lost his gloominess. Harry is of the opinion that his lads will beat Alabama, then V. M. I., and then Tennessee. In fact, Harry hints that he is liable to use his second string a lot of the time against Alabama.

More wholesome confidence, or a case of the much champagne. Take your choice.

Tuesday's practice sent the varsity into battle against the freshmen team using Alabama formations. These Tide maneuvers, spinners and tackle smashes, were being well-stopped by the Wildcats, and when it came their turn to take the ball, the varsity ran through their plays, many of them new, with power and skill.

Tom Phipps, the only man injured in the Clemson game, returned to uniform this afternoon, apparently none the worse for wear and tear.

Wade Drives Line in Practice.

University, Ala., November 5.—Coach Wallace Wade drafted the heavy frosh line Monday to help keep his big varsity front wall in condition while he turned his attention to the crippled backfield. Alabama is expecting a heavy line assault from Kentucky Saturday, and Montgomery fans should see some first class line play.

Although Ralph McWright is the only first team back who is definitely out of the game, the other varsity backs have suffered many minor injuries. Campbell will be relied upon to start at the quarterback position against the Kentucky Wildcats.

KENTUCKIAN HIT IT RIGHT

undoubtedly, would result in a traffic jam at the throne and a long, hard winter around the cracker barrel."

LOST TWICE. It so happens that in the course of events Tech has been defeated twice and there already is a jam in the traffic with the very next game apparently pointed toward a conclusion with two or three teams undefeated.

It was in his analysis of the Alabama football situation that Mr. Danforth really outdid himself and it was meditation on that analysis which inspired this panegyric.

While praising the song for the Crimson Tide Mr. Danforth went and saw and wrote that Alabama was unimpressive in practice and that Wade was facing a tremendous task in making a formidable eleven of the material at hand.

THE REVIEW. In reviewing the Alabama eleven in September Mr. Danforth wrote: "It is fair to say, however, that Coach Wade and his folks are working just as hard on every other play as they are on the one they are on tackling. They are working hard but, frankly, do not seem to be getting as satisfactory results as they might. For one thing, the weather always is better in Tuscaloosa than anywhere else on the globe. For another thing, the personnel of this year's Alabama team does not seem to be as enthusiastic about the game of football as other Crimson squads have been. They go about their chores slowly and frankly seem to be behind other conference squads in condition as of this date."

"This is the seventh annual visit I have made to the Alabama campus in gentle autumn and I have never seen a Crimson squad work out so unimpressively. Possibly part of the poor impression was due to the fact that Tony Holm, the best fullback in the south this year, was not in action, and Randolph Campbell, the spin-play artist, was off taking an examination for back work in psychology."

VARSITY SPILLED. "At any rate, the Alabama team I saw work was rudely handled by a third-string line; their plays were spilled at the line of scrimmage, and when the best backs past the line they could not sidestep tackles. The Crimson Tide will have to improve a great deal before it can become the terrible machine pre-season reports indicated."

"The Alabama offense, for instance, promises to have considerable power for short gains; these same players showed that last year in the Thanksgiving Day game with Georgia. But there is no flashy halfback who can 'hand them a foot and take it away' when he gets into the open."

"John Suther is a back of the shifty fast type, but he has a bad shoulder that he continues to favor and may not be of much use. Alabama has no pair of backs like Mizell and Thompson, McEver and Hickman, and no single back like Banker or Crabtree."

That was Alabama's trouble last year after Brasfield left school, and a year does not seem to have supplied the deficiency."

ONLY ONE. That analysis of the Alabama football situation was the only one of its kind and subsequent results have shown how accurate it was.

Continuing during the season Mr. Danforth continued by selecting Tennessee to beat Alabama because of the lack of versatility in the backfield and called the Alabama-Vanderbilt game correctly declaring that before the game that Vanderbilt would win with a kicking game which would give them the ball in Alabama territory and a touchdown or so would follow by a pass or end run. And it so happened that Vanderbilt scored two, one on a pass and another by kicking the Alabama end.

For a Kentuckian Mr. Danforth

Thanks for the Ad.

My tail-end hook is gone, I guess, And for the present I'm out of that mess; No more does the pill take a left-side flip—Thanks, old man, for a worth-while tip. Yesterday on number five—

Man, listen!—I uncorked a drive! My second a spoon, carried all the way, And ten feet back of the pin it lay; A curling putt, but true it ran And dropped with a plunk right in the can; That's what happened the day I shook Myself all loose from that tail-end hook.

(You may recall we advised Sir Bill To swing the heel of his club at the pill.)

A Hard Assignment.

Those talking about hard football assignments for the year might consider the case of Harvard.

Harvard struck the Army on October 19. On October 26 Dartmouth blew along. Florida came last week. That made three tough ones. Now Michigan, at Ann Arbor, lies just ahead for Saturday; after that Holy Cross and Yale follow order. This makes a total of six hard games without a week's rest. They all demand about as good football as Harvard can show. As this will be the Crimson's first invasion of the mid-west, there is a most earnest desire on Harvard's part to prove that most of the football isn't played west of the Alleghenies. Michigan has set no universe on fire this season, but there have always been possibilities that the team would hit a higher plane and finally get somewhere—as it did last year, after a groggy, floundering beginning. So Harvard has no weak team to meet in facing Michigan through a big November game.

Boosting the Real Star.

Dear Mr. Rice: After watching so many football and basketball games and seeing so many brilliant stars escape without notice because they did not do the actual ball carrying or scoring, I have been moved to pay tribute to the man who, in my mind and to the mind of every real keen observer, deserve the greater portion of recognition.

I believe this poem will act as a fitting memory to Ed Hill and to other football greats who have passed beyond the horizon, as well as present-day performers like Myers, of N. Y. U.; Murrell, of Army, and others.

THE MAN WHO TAKES 'EM OUT. "He plays the hardest 'em out. The role that brings no fame. The role that only coaches know Decides the score and game."

"He plays the real unselfish part. The part no rooters see. The part that brings no deafening cheers To stars in victory."

"He plays the game for all he's worth, Not for applause and shout—Yes, I for one will cheer respect The Man Who Takes 'Em Out."

MARTIN H. BARAD.

Which calls to mind one of the old and truest slogans of the game—"For football players look in front of the ball."

Zuppke's Delight.

Bob Zuppke, of Illinois, doesn't really get steamed up until he gets a crack at some standard eastern team. When he does, you can gamble that on that particular afternoon he will have his team ready to give everything it has, with nothing held in check. Zuppke's delight is trimming the east whenever he can. He set out to get Pennsylvania a few years ago and won in a canter.

He has had his eye on the Army game ever since it was arranged, and there is a big chance that even Cagle will have a hard time making any great headway against the Orange and Blue defense, which is always of a high order.

The Illinois attack this season isn't up to its strong defense. Illinois has a line that can hold its own anywhere, but so far the western team has shown no ball carrier with any outstanding quality.

possesses remarkable powers of clarity in his observations. I am moved to this encomium of those powers by his success. Whenever a Kentuckian is cool enough to see things as they are it moves me profoundly. He certainly called the turn on most of them. Certainly he did on Alabama.

Had a Tennessee called them so it would not have been surprising.

Tennessee has been showing the way to Kentucky ever since Tennessee saved the Kentucky "settlements" from the Indians. I strongly suspect that Mr. Danforth must have been born on the right side of the line after all.

Pinehurst Polo Season Under Way

Pinehurst, N. C., November 5.—(AP) Polo got under way here today with an inaugural contest between teams representing Ox Ridge, of Darien, Conn., against a squad from the Sand Hills Club, of Pinehurst. Ox Ridge was victorious in a six-chukker engagement, 8 goals to 7.

Middle Georgia Meets Columbus

Cochran, Ga., November 5.—The Middle Georgia college football team, undefeated this season and having lost but one game in the past two seasons, will play the strong Columbus Industrial school in Cochran next Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Coaches Jake Morris and Hughes Browning will smooth out the rough spots shown in the Gordon Institute game here last Friday. The Middle Georgia boys defeated the Gordon team by 19 to 7, but the offense could not get clicking as it did in the Alabama State Teachers college game.

The Middle Georgia goal line has not been crossed but once in any game this season and with the recovery of big Pete Harrell, 240-pound tackle, and Captain Roy Dykes, center, the college boys will be much stronger.

From the Sand Hills Club, of Pinehurst, Ox Ridge was victorious in a six-chukker engagement, 8 goals to 7.

line-up unless his injured ankle rounds into shape with speed. Other injured men will be able to play.

Alex Labors With Offense.

Theories to the effect that the Georgia Tech-Vanderbilt game at Nashville Saturday will be a battle of offenses, of barrage and attack, have brought on talk—and work—at the Flats.

Whatever Uncle Dan McGugin may do or have, the Man at the Flats took steps Tuesday afternoon to see that his offense will be in working order Saturday.

Coach Alex drilled his Jackets—and drilled them hard and long—on signals Tuesday in an effort to have everything connected with the Tech machine clicking smoothly in Nashville.

From the time the team came on the Rose Bowl field until dark they ran signals. They ran signals against the empty air, and they went through a dummy scrimmage. The polishing was complete and thorough.

Part of the gloom which has been hovering above the Flats lifted as Doug Graydon was finally pronounced ready for work. Graydon, out two weeks ago with two bad ankles, missed the Tulane game. Last week he limped into battle against the Irish and came out with no ill effects. This week he should be ready to go the route.

Bob McKinney and Shag Williams, line reserves who have been ailing for some time, were also kicking about with no signs of injury for the first time in many days. The addition of these two lads to the squad will in part compensate for the possible losses of Jim Brooke, Bull Williams and Rudy Schwartz. All three of these men may be able to play against the Commodores, but their fate is still in the balance.

These mishaps in the line have presented the Jacket coaches with a real problem. With a forward wall admittedly much weaker than that of 1925, the Tech mentors have had to combat a far greater number of injuries this season than they did last. They still hope, however, to have a line ready for action by game time Saturday which will be able to hold its own. And that will be no easy task, either for the coaches or for the line they elect to play.

The Jackets will be drilled hard during the balance of the week and when the team entrains on Friday for Nashville the boys should know much more about the game than they did Monday. Or last Saturday, either. The Irishmen of Notre Dame administered a valuable lesson at that time. The Jackets should profit by their experience and be able to play a better game for having faced the Express in action.

V. P. I. Virginia In Old Feud

Blacksburg, Va., November 5.—That old Tech war cry of the gridiron—"Beat Virginia!"—will echo across the V. P. I. campus this coming week. It's because Lambda field at the university is the next destination of Coach Andy Gustafson and his Gobblers eleven.

A wealth of tradition and interesting lore attend this battle. Like every tilt but one on the Tech schedule this fall, this game belongs to a series which dates back to the "gay nineties." When Virginia and V. P. I. played for the first time it was a handful of fair fans were numbered among the inaugural crowd, for few of the Charlottesville belles dared in those days to sit through such a rude and burly affair as a football game. The ladies came to the battle-ground at the university that 15th day of October, 1895, in long flowing skirts, bulging sleeves, and carrying fringed parasols to ward off the rays of the autumn sun.

Major Elevens Are Drilled Hard for Big Games Saturday

Big Ten Leaders Face Rough Going

Northwestern Plans To Spill Ohio State and Add Another Contender To Its List.

Chicago, November 5.—Northwestern's "Giant Killers," who stopped the Big Ten football championship habit of Illinois, conspired tonight to drop another championship contender, Ohio State.

Cochran Hanley pushed his Wildcatters through a long drill on fundamentals tonight, delivered an oration on over-confidence and then began development of a defense to stop the Holman-Fesler passing combination which has made the Buckeyes a contender for the Big Ten gridiron crown.

The varsity took the defensive all during practice against the yearlings in scrimmage and broke up the Mock Ohio State aerial attack consistently. Coach Hanley indicated he would use Bill Griffith, a light but speedy ball carrier, in the backfield Saturday and that a fast running attack would be employed.

Cochran Bob Zupke's Illinois varsity was out after a day's rest tonight and hustled through a long defensive scrimmage against the freshmen. Gilbert Barry, freshman halfback, who was to act the role of "Red" Cagle, the Army's ace, was incapacitated by an injury and "Zup" had to look for someone else. The Illini were cheered by the return to practice of Fritz Humbert, varsity fullback, who has been on the injured list.

Minnesota plunged spiritedly in its task of preparing for the Iowa invasion with the first scrimmage in more than a week against the freshmen. Coach Clarence Spears, recalling the bruising Iowa attack last year, continued to build up his reserve power. In a stiff scrimmage, Iowa's varsity stopped Minnesota formations impressively. Mastrogny, veteran Hawkeye end, was out of tonight's practice with a twisted ankle. Michigan may throw its real team against Harvard Saturday. Dahlin and Simrall, backfield stars, reported

Old Star Writes Deathbed Letter To Al Marsters

New York, November 5.—(AP)—A death-bed letter from "Beau" Olcott, who was All-American center on Gordon Brown's football team at Yale in 1900, to Alton Marsters, star of this year's Dartmouth eleven, was published by the New York Times today. The letter praises the Dartmouth team for its sportsmanship.

Olcott died at his home in Wallingford, Conn., last night. A copy of the letter was sent to the Times by George St. John, headmaster of the Choate school.

It follows:

"Dear Alton Marsters:

"I am so much of an invalid that I cannot write myself, but, as an old Yale center and a coach of many years, wish to give my admiring homage to such a sterling exhibition of good sportsmanship and good football as Dartmouth showed on November 2.

"I saw you play two years ago—that was the last time that I was able to see any game—and I then picked you for one of the best backs that I have ever seen.

"I can tell you how glad I am that you have so superbly justified that opinion and how sorry I was to see so gallant a team meet defeat in the way it did after so great a battle.

"I send my best wishes to you and the Dartmouth team for the rest of the season and through life.

"Sincerely yours,
"H. P. OLCOTT, Yale 1901."

of 1928 came when the Navy insisted that Army adopt the three-year eligibility rule. The Army was equally determined to preserve its own eligibility code, which does not bar from competition candidates who have played in college games before coming to West Point.

"They (Army and Navy) should engage in athletics," said Captain Jones, who quits his post as coach this year.

Biff Jones 'Pulls' For Service Game

West Point, N. Y., November 5.—(AP)—Captain Lawrence M. (Biff) Jones, head coach of Army football, hopes that Army-Navy athletic relations will be resumed with the proviso that it be under the Army's own code of eligibility.

In a radio message over the Columbia Broadcasting system chain last night, Captain Jones urged that the Army-Navy contests be resumed "with any cadet or any midshipman not deficient in his studies" eligible to participate.

good physical condition and both will probably see service against the New Yorkers.

Aside from Downes, Georgia will send its full strength into the New York game. A few of the players are suffering from minor injuries, but Head Coach Harry Mehre is keeping them out of the scrimmages to allow them to be as near normal as possible for the Saturday tilt. News has reached Athens that New York scouts have watched Georgia play on more occasions and that the Violets are pointing for the Bulldog game, knowing that if they could defeat the team that licked Yale they will regain some of the prestige lost in several of their games this season.

The Bulldogs looked good in an offensive drill against the freshmen this afternoon. Davidson led the attack with a 65-yard run for a touchdown, besides being a constant ground gainer on short plays through the line.

After Davidson's long dash the varsity was satisfied to gain with short plays through the air.

Ed Hamilton and Gerding also turned in a fine performance of interference and ball carrying.

Vernon Smith looked good in the line. The Bulldog end was handling those large freshmen with tackles with better results than he has had this year. He and Bobby Rose were opening up large holes for Davidson Roberts and Gerding. Another player who appears to be improving with the season is Earl Lynn, Georgia's 220-pound tackle. The big Tappan appears to be hitting his stride.

Approximately three teams will be taken on the trip.

Meehan Shifts Violet Lineup.

New York, November 5.—(United News.)—The New York university squad held a brisk practice today and attended the Fordham-West Virginia game late in the day.

Cochran Meehan is making several shifts in an effort to strengthen the end positions for this week's game against Georgia at the Yankee stadium Saturday.

Midget Wolgast Wins in Tourney

New York, November 5.—(AP)—Midget Wolgast, Philadelphia, lightweight, opened the tournament that will decide the next New York nominee as the 112-pound champion, by defeating Johnny McCoy, of Buffalo, N. Y., in a 10-round contest. The decision was most unpopular. Wolgast weighed 110 pounds, McCoy 111 3-4.

Courtney Matched With Leo Lomski

Chicago, November 5.—(AP)—George Courtney, Oklahoma lightweight, and Leo Lomski, Aberdeen (Wash.) puncher, have been matched for a 10-round bout at Olympia arena, Detroit, November 15. The bout will be an elimination affair, and Dick Dunn, Olympia promoter, and Scotty Monteth, matchmaker, hope to match the winner with the victor of the Yale Okun-Maxie Rosenbloom fight in New York, in Detroit, December 20.

ROOKIES GIVE AMERICAN LOOP BIG ADVANTAGE

Griffith Explains Superiority of Junior League.

Washington, November 5.—Clark Griffith, the "Silver Fox" of the Washington Senators, sees no mystery in the evident superiority of recent American league champions against pennant winners of the National league.

Griffith says the reason the last three world series went the way they did—the American league winning 12 games to the National's one—is very simply explained.

"The American league," Griffith explains, "is more willing than the National to spend great sums on rookies. Consequently, the American has been getting the 'cream' of the new crop of young ball players, while the National league—with important positions filled by aging veterans, on the down grade with little real ability left—is placed at disadvantage."

VETERANS.

"However," he said, "don't think that older players are valueless. Not at all. When prospects are favorable for a pennant in early season—then is the time to buy veterans. The little something they have left may be just what is necessary to make the championship grade. But the next year—in the reaction following a triumph—they are apt to be through."

Griffith hopes to accomplish in the next three or four years what Connie Mack has just succeeded in doing after 15 years—that is, win another championship for Washington.

"We are trying to build a team," he said, "of men who will reach their heights at about the same time. With the addition of a few right-handed batters and some young but seasoned pitchers, and, of course, that vital 'spark,' to the present aggregation the Nats should be right in the pennant race next season. We now have both 'coming' and 'seasoned' players."

TRAINING MANAGERS.

Referring to Walter Johnson, whose first season as manager just ended was not so successful, Griffith said: "Managers need training just as much as their men, and, most important, they need to know and understand the men they are managing."

"After an absence of one year, it took Johnson all last season to familiarize himself with the capabilities of each player. I look forward to seeing him get much greater results next year."

Griffith believes that while the Athletics, "still a young team," are outstanding candidates for the 1930 flag, the New York Yankees should have more power than they did in the race just past.

"You never can tell in baseball, though," he said. "Sometimes we think we have a winning team but things prove otherwise. And then again we win with a team which doesn't seem as good as its predecessor which failed—it just had a winning 'spark'."

SPARKPLUG.

"Sometimes we get that 'spark' as in 1924 we got 'Sparkplug' Mathews in a trade. As soon as we took on Mathews we went into a winning streak. A slump came, we traded Mathews away for McNamara, and the resulting slump sent us on to win the pennant, and the world's championship."

Griffith found two great weaknesses in his club last year, very poor batting against left-handed pitchers, the team having too many left-handers and too few left-handed batters and too few seasoned pitchers. The "spark" also was lacking.

"With Ossie Bluege able to play third in 1930, Buddy Myers will probably alternate with Hayes at second. Both are young and will some day be very good ball players. Myers did very well at second last year considering that he jumped in as he did without any practice in the position. Buddy can hit well and Hayes is improving in that respect. If Hayes' fielding could be combined with Myers' ability to hit it would make a big difference."

OUTFIELD.

"The chief weakness of the outfield is in batting against left-handed pitchers. I am adding George Looper, formerly with Baltimore in the International league, as a right-handed pinch hitter. He will be particularly useful. I hope, in place of a regular outfielder when Washington is facing left-handed pitching."

"I am on the lookout for seasoned but not wanting pitchers to supplement the veterans and the staff of younger men—Brown, Ad Liska, Burke and Hadley. Hadley should produce really good work next season; his finish of the last promised much. He can pitch real baseball, as shown when he struck out 12 batters in a game against Detroit. A few days later he repeated against the Macks, but thought that he had the game sewed up in the ninth and was consequently knocked out of the box. Hadley must take the game seriously to win. He is beginning to do this and I expect him to turn in a great performance in 1930."

Gophers, Purdue Menaced by Iowa

Chicago, November 5.—(AP)—Minnesota and Purdue, racing step and step toward Western conference football honors, both are haunted by the same specter—Iowa.

The Iowa menace is Minnesota's concern this week for they will meet at Iowa City Saturday. With Northwestern and Indiana out of the way, Coach Spears started yesterday to elaborate on his offense, in preparation for the game that may make or break the Gopher season.

The situation caused by the schedule may work to the advantage of Purdue, which will meet Iowa after Minnesota takes its crack at Burt Ingersoll's team.

Ohio State's prospects of a victory over Northwestern Saturday were jolted yesterday when Coach Sam Williamson of the Buckeyes suspended Charlie Coffee, one of his star halfbacks, for the remainder of the season for infraction of training rules while the team was in Pittsburgh last week-end.

Illinois started drilling for its inter-sectional clash with Army Saturday. Coach Zupke finished telling the varsity how bad it looked against Northwestern last Saturday. "Frosty" Peters was in uniform yesterday, but will not know if he will be able to play against the Cadets, until he is given an X-ray examination Wednesday.

25,000 Fans To See Vandy and Vols Play

Knoxville, Tenn., November 5.—(AP)—Officials of the University of Tennessee Athletic Association believed today that 25,000 football fans will see the Vanderbilt-Volunteer game here November 16. Every seat in the main stadium had been sold and bleacher tickets were in demand.

Bill Blease May Stroke Columbia

Bill Blease, veteran of three years rowing under Dick Glendon, Jr., rowing coach at Columbia university, may stroke the 1930 varsity. He pulled No. 6 oar in the champion varsity eight this year. He is a giant, weighing close to 200 pounds.

Buy Now and Buy Right

Come in and let us show you what a saving you can make

YOUR opportunity to own an Oakland All-American Six is here! Come in now and let us tell you about it. At no time in the history of medium-priced sixes have car owners ever been offered a buy like this. For the Oakland All-American is alone in value leadership.

Proved by Comparison—The Oakland All-American Six was compared with 20 other medium-priced cars in one of the most exhaustive analyses of value ever made. In all, 878 comparisons were made, of which 451 or 51.37 per cent showed Oakland to be definitely superior. The 20 cars combined were at best equal to Oakland on 382 or 43.50 per cent. And 13 of the 20 cars were higher-priced than Oakland.

Advanced in Design—The Oakland All-American Six is dependable, long-lived and offers outstanding performance because of such advanced features as the 228-cubic-inch L-head engine, the patented rubber "biscuit" engine mountings which insulate the engine from the frame—the Harmonic Balancer.

Distinctive in Beauty—The Oakland All-American Six has bodies by Fisher with all their new distinctive beauty, and offered in a variety of the season's most popular Duco shades. Added to their luxury and charm of appearance are the comfort of their wide, deeply upholstered seats and the sturdy durability of their composite hardwood and heavy gauge steel construction.

Act Today! You can buy right if you buy the Oakland All-American Six now! That means a real car at a real saving. Come in and find out for yourself how conveniently you can own and enjoy America's finest medium-priced automobile.

Oakland All-American Six, $1445 to $1575, f. o. b. Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charges. Spring covers and Loewig Hydraulic Shock Absorbers included in list prices. Bumpers and rear fender guards extra. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list (f. o. b.) price when comparing automobile values. . . . Oakland-Pontiac delivered prices include only authorized charges for freight and delivery and the charge for any additional accessories or financing desired.

DOLORES' DOUBLE CAUGHT BY CUPID

Popular Atlanta Belle To Announce Engagement

THE JUNIOR LEAGUE TEA ROOM is a famous place for news. An exciting piece broke there early Tuesday morning. One of its most popular and energetic members—a regular stand-by—rushed hurriedly in with excuses. She couldn't, she insisted, be on hand as usual. She was announcing her engagement, she explained, and she had ever so many things to attend to.

This engagement, formal news of which belongs to next Sunday's papers, will bring reminders to everyone of a certain lovely Atlanta girl whose beauty is equal, and very similar in type, to that of Dolores Costello. In fact, she is called "Dolores" by her intimates on play-days when life is running smoothly and they want to prove how well they love her.

She was, very naturally, a Washington Seminary girl. Her achievements at "White Columns" (as I like to call that beneficent and useful old lady on Peachtree road) were by no means negligible. During her senior year she had every honor bestowed upon her. She was editor-in-chief of "Facts and Fancies," the college annual, and, at the same time editor-in-chief of "Miss Emma," the monthly college paper, offices usually divided between two pupils and seldom bestowed, both of them, upon one.

She was president of the O. B. X. sorority also. Her beauty as well as her talent for leadership naturally made her selection for Queen of the May-day ceremonies a foregone conclusion. Coles Phillips, the celebrated artist, selected her as one of the three most beautiful southern girls in the contest sponsored by the southern colleges.

"Dolores" comes naturally by her talent for journalism, which seems to run in the family, her gifted mother being herself a writer and at one time a contributor to the daily press.

THE groom-to-be—well, he's everything the role calls for! A Tech boy, of course, a Bull-dog, and S. A. E., and a member of one of the most representative Georgia families. He did not meet "Dolores" during his Tech days, however—that was a little before her time. Fate brought them together at last at the S. A. E. chapter house on the occasion of the Pan-Hellenic dance last summer.

There were many aspirants in the field, it seems. With one of these she had planned a visit to his family in a distant city this week-end. But that's all off now. There was a sudden closing in from what has turned out to be a more important direction. A wire to the distant city was the result. "Sorry, impossible to come, Sunday papers will explain."

The wedding will take place some time in December. The young couple will reside in Augusta, where the former Tech student is now a prosperous insurance man.

OF the twenty young women elected members on probation of the Junior League, one has actually declined the honor—a thing hitherto unheard of. The young lady in question—one of the outstanding members of the Debutante Club several years ago, the second daughter of one of our almost royal families—flatly and simply admits that she doesn't care to assume the responsibilities of league membership.

Any debutante who imagines that she can matriculate into a full-fledged Junior Leaguer (once her year's probationship is over) without working hard to earn it has a rude awakening before her. The declining-young-lady, probably foreseeing this contingency, acted in time. It can never be said of her that she didn't, at least, know her own mind.

Those who are called for duty on stated occasions and who fail to comply, without an acceptable excuse, are suspended; if the delinquency continues they are dropped.

The Junior League is a social organization, of course, but it is

Johnson-Sharp Rehearsal Followed By Buffet Supper

An affair of last evening was the buffet supper at which Mr. and Mrs. Norman Sharp entertained following the wedding rehearsal of Miss Leticia Johnson and Jack Sharp, whose marriage will be a brilliant event. The house was beautifully decorated throughout in a color scheme of gold and white. In the living room were placed vases of yellow tea roses and in the music room were large baskets filled with yellow chrysanthemums. The dining table was covered with an imported fluted and Italian cut work cloth, and in the center of the table was a silver basket filled with huge yellow chrysanthemums. Silver candlesticks, tied with yellow tulle, and holding unscented yellow tapers, were placed at intervals on the table encircling the centerpiece.

Miss Johnson wore a gown of yellow satin, and her corsage was of orchids and valley lilies; Mrs. Sharp wore black chiffon, embroidered in seed pearls, and her shoulder corsage was of orchids and valley lilies; Miss Jane Sharp was gown in pink velvet, trimmed in silver and rhinestones, and her flowers were pink roses and valley lilies. Mrs. Horsey wore a lace gown with corsage of roses.

Assisting in entertaining the guests were Miss Jane Sharp and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Horsey. The guests included Misses Johnson, Billy Johnson, Sarah Hurt, Vivian Hay, of Macon; Virginia Torrance, Jane Sharp, and Dan Conklin; Charles Tuller, Nesbit Mayre, Paul Johnson, Jr., Tom Roberts, Burnam McGehee, Walker Cowles, Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Johnson, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cantler, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Julian Barrett, of LaGrange; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Garlington, Preston Arkwright, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Arkwright, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Cowles, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sisson and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hodgson.

Reservations Given For Benefit Bridge.

Reservations for the benefit bridge party to be sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary Friday afternoon, November 8, have been made by the following ladies: Mesdames Willis M. Everett, Sr., Willis M. Everett, Jr., John W. Fairley, Paul Fleming, W. F. Dykes, John M. Cooper, William Candler, Stiles Hopkins, Henry Porter, E. E. Harrison, E. L. Osborne, L. J. McGill, B. F. Ulmer, J. L. Harper, George Eubanks, W. F. Downing, Percy Adams, C. E. LaFontaine, R. S. Pringle, W. B. Spann, Marion L. Benson, William R. Prescott, John M. Slaton, Fred Peace, H. P. McKnight, John S. Spalding, Alexander Kenneth Kuhn, W. O. Foote, George Knapp, B. S. Barker, Mark Palmour, De Los Hill, K. Ayer, John Hancock, Stewart McGinty, A. T. Hiller, Stillwell Robinson, Hamilton Douglas, W. C. Tennent, Francis Kamper, John Aldredge, Lewis Thibadeau, B. M. Boykin, Sam Maddox, William Kingdom, Gilbert Beers, S. C. Dinkins, Alfred Jackson, Henry Morgan, J. R. Bracewell, L. M. Woodward, L. B. Coley, J. G. Ison, H. J. Carr, Strother Fleming, E. A. Bantler, Charles L. Elyea, St. Henry Heinz, Robert M. McFarland, W. H. Chambers, and Miss Nellie Hightower. There will be tables for those who have not made reservations.

Imagine a multitude of small tables, all crowded together in a most friendly manner; lovely young maids and matrons (wearing white swiss aprons and beaming with white swiss caps) passing to and fro, cigarette smoke ad libitum; happy chatter on all sides, everything that makes life exciting and interesting, all crowded together, and you will be able to visualize the Junior League Tea Room.

It reminds one of New York, something of the very best of Greenwich Village translated to a more favorable and a better bred environment. Perhaps the caps and the aprons were not becoming to the declining-young-lady. Who can say?

Miss Freeman Honors Mrs. Lee Fraher.

Mrs. Bleckley and Mrs. Argo Appear As Heroines in Mrs. Whitney's Book

Mrs. Haralson Bleckley and her sister, Mrs. Robert Argo, charming and prominent Atlantans, are featured as heroines in Gertrude Capen Whitney's new book entitled "House of Landell." The scenes are laid in Augusta, winter home of the author. The conversation between Ollie (Mrs. Bleckley) and Ella (Mrs. Argo) are verbatim as Mrs. Whitney heard them in the old Evans home on Campbell street in Augusta.

Tom is the name of the hero in the story, and one of the letters used in "House of Landell" is an exact replica of one Mrs. Bleckley received from a northern admirer, even to the misspelled word and the joking incident to it. The love making scenes, the trips to the locks, and his impressions of Greene street, are true to nature.

The southern home described as Ollie's, is the old Twigg's home on Greene street, occupied at that time by the Merciers, the girlhood home of Mrs. Roselle Mercer Montgomery, the noted poet who resides in New York city, but who often visits Mrs. Bleckley and Mrs. Argo in Atlanta.

The Confederate monument on Broad street, the description of Broad street as this northern man saw them, the quips and repartee also are accurate and true to life, and convincing is the writer's handling of the Ollie's elision of the media and the charm of her southern modulation. Mrs. Whitney has authored many books, and the next one, almost ready for publication, includes Augusta in its settings and characters, demonstrating her affection and devotion to the south, which has been for many years the adopted home of Mrs. Whitney, who was born in Massachusetts.

Bridge Party and Style Show To Be at Woman's Club Today

A group of Atlanta's most popular and attractive matrons will be seen as models in the elaborate fashion review, which will be sponsored by the garden committee of the Atlanta Women's Club this afternoon, in addition to the debutantes, sub-deb and children who will take part. This group includes Mesdames Walter T. Chandler, Alonzo Richardson, Irving S. Thomas, Thomas E. Akrigg, W. Clyde Drummond, E. V. Carter, Harry G. Poole, Raymond Klein, Frank Holland and Earl Hardwick, who will be seen in the review wearing the latest creations in the mature styles from the fashionable French parlors and ready-to-wear departments of Davison-Paxon Company. The bridge game begins promptly at 2 o'clock, terminating at 3 o'clock, at which time the elaborate fashion show will begin. The funds accruing from the party will go toward beautifying the grounds and toward the general up-keep of the club. Mrs. Fred C. Rice and Mrs. Walter Scott Askew will preside at the punch bowl, while Mrs. John R. Horn-ady, president of the club, will distribute the prizes, assisted by Mrs. Walter A. Sims and the committee on prizes. Tables may be secured by calling Mrs. T. E. Simmons at the club, Hemlock 4036, or through any member of the committee. Tables, $2. Individual reservations, 50 cents. Mrs. Jesse M. Manry, chairman of the garden committee, and her co-chairman, Mrs. Fred C. Creswell, are general chairmen of the bridge party, and Mrs. V. Clyde Drummond and Mrs. George L. Turner are general chairmen of the fashion review. Taking part in the review will be Misses Ernestine Hornaday, Ida Nevin, Marion Wolff, Ida Thomas, Marion Gertman, Charlotte King, Helen Cody, Virginia Courts, Gertrude Askew, Mary Askew, Martha Buchanan, Josephine Turner, Elsie Prater, Edna Ruffy, Catherine Garwood, Mesdames Jeff Richardson, Kenneth Keyes, Charles Barfield and Harold Rogers, and little Marion Elizabeth Chandler, Betty Dunn and Margaret Ruby Drummond who will be in the kiddie class.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Dorn Celebrate Golden Wedding in East Point

East Point, Ga., November 5.—Celebrating the fiftieth wedding anniversary of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Dorn, Mrs. B. H. Orr and Mrs. H. H. Witt, of Atlanta, Ala., will entertain at a reception at 8 o'clock Thursday evening, November 7, at the home of Mrs. Orr, 402 Cheney Street, East Point. Mr. and Mrs. Dorn, who have been actively identified with the civic and social life of East Point for the past fifteen years, will be surrounded by a group of friends and relatives to whom they have become endeared through a period of many years. Among those who will attend the reception are Dr. James Manget, John Manget and Sam Manget, of Atlanta, nephews of Mr. and Mrs. Dorn; and their eight grandchildren, Misses Le Claire and Dorothy Witt, of Anniston, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Orr, of Anniston; and Misses Amelia, Evelyn, Marie, Jeanne, Sallie Joe Orr, Ben Hill Orr, Jr., and Fred Orr, children of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Orr, of East Point. Mr. and Mrs. Dorn have two other sons, Fred Manget Dorn, of San Bernardino, Cal., and Daniel B. Dorn, of Red Bank, N. J., and five other grandchildren, Fred Dorn, Jr., and Leon Dorn, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Manget Dorn, of San Bernardino, Cal.; and Daniel Dorn, Jr., Victor Manget Dorn and Miss Alnetta Dorn, children of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel B. Dorn, of Red Bank, N. J. The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Dorn was solemnized November 7, 1879, in Savannah, where they made their home before moving to Americus, Ellijah, Marietta, where Mrs. Dorn formerly made her home as Miss Minnie Manget, and Atlanta, where they resided for many years. Mr. and Mrs. Dorn made their home in Anniston, Ala., for ten years before moving to East Point. Mrs. Dorn has been active in the affairs of the East Point Presbyterian church for many years. Mr. Dorn is a Confederate veteran, a retired merchant, and a prominent resident of East Point. Prior to his retirement, he was a successful businessman with the civic and social life of that section.

Miss Frances Spalding Makes Debut At Reception Given at The Homestead

Mrs. John S. Spalding entertained at a brilliant reception yesterday at The Homestead, on Ashby street, in West End, marking the formal presentation to society of her lovely debutante daughter, Miss Frances Spalding, and sharing honors with her sister, Miss Constance Spalding, and her former roommate at Randolph-Macon college, Miss Virginia Baldwin, of Lynchburg, Va., and Miss Mary Matheson.

Forming the receiving line in the living room were Mrs. Spalding and her daughters, Mrs. Croom Partidge, Misses Constance, Frances, Sally and Elizabeth Spalding, Misses Virginia Baldwin and Mary Matheson, Mesdames Jeff Davis, of Toccoa, Ga.; Warner Martin, Hal Hentz and Thomas Connally.

Intimate Friends.
A group of intimate friends of the hostess assisted in entertaining, including Mesdames Alfred C. Newell, Walter Middleton, Pearl Moseley Gay and Miss Emma Scott, composing a foursome who received at Mrs. Spalding's debut party, when, as Miss Mary Brown Connally, she was presented to Atlanta society at The Homestead by her mother, the late Mrs. Connally, yesterday's reception marking the anniversary of this auspicious event. Mesdames Louise Spalding Foster, George Brown, Elijah Brown, Fred Patterson, Fred Patterson, Robert Emmett Harvey and E. M. Poter, and Miss Fannie Sue Bailey also assisted in entertaining. The gorgeous flowers sent Miss Spalding, commemorating her formal entrance into society, filled every table in the living room, and gave formal evidence of the popularity of the debutante and the most aristocratic members of the debutante coterie.

Effective Decorations.
Effective arrangements of smilax, evergreens and yellow and white chrysanthemums gathered from the gardens surrounding "The Homestead" were used to form the colorful decoration. A note of sentiment expressed the decorations featured the exact replica in every detail of decoration of the debut party of the hostess, when, on November 5, 1896, as Miss Mary Brown Connally, she was presented to Atlanta society at the "Homestead" by her mother, the late Mrs. E. L. Connally.

Misses Marian Hillier Wolff, Adair McCarty, Suzette Heath, Frances Howards, Augusta Porter, Frances Barnett, Myra Boynton, Elsa Palmer and Fannie Sue Bailey presided at the exquisitely decorated punch bowls, placed in the library. Members of the Debutante Club of 1929-30 assisted in entertaining, including Misses Catherine Norcross, Boyce Loke, Martha Worth Rogers, Zeila Venable, Marson, Adeline Winston, Katherine Howell, Betty Davidson, Myra Boynton, Lena Knox, Leon Walker, Phoebe Ellis, Mary Dodd, Elizabeth Dodd, Helen Beasley, Elizabeth Branch, Jane Dillon, Ruth Rowbotham, Littell Finkhouser, Sarah Law, Sally Pearson, Margaret Kelley, Helena Calloway, Grace Fowell, Peggy Poindexter, Eugenia Morris,

Needlework Guild Meets Friday At Mrs. Mitchell's

Atlanta branch, Needlework Guild of America, holds a meeting in connection with the annual tea Friday afternoon, November 8, at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. S. B. Mitchell, 1140 Springdale road. Officers, section presidents and directors are requested to attend 100 per cent strong, and others especially interested in the work of the Needlework Guild are urged to attend and learn of this philanthropic work which is of real community service. Section presidents will be asked to tell of the progress their sections are making towards this year's collection of garments to be held the week of December 2. There will be election of officers, but new officers will not function until January, 1930. Short inspirational talks will be made on Friday by Miss Ada Woolfolk, of the Family Welfare Society; Miss Mary Dickinson, of the Anti-Tuberculosis Association, and Miss Amy Chadwick, of the Leonard Street orphanage. The above mentioned are three of the 40 social agencies in Atlanta helped by the Needlework Guild. This marks the 25th year of the organization of the Atlanta branch. Since it is our silver jubilee, it has been suggested that the citizens of Atlanta be as generous as possible in the contribution of garments or money to help those less fortunate in our midst. The annual tea will follow the business meeting and Miss Laura Lombard will sing. Clear Staid, of Decatur; Caroline Ridley, Mary Salome Betts and Viola James are four of the Camp Fire girls who will assist the officers in entertaining. The Camp Fire girls led junior organizations in the city in the number of new garments contributed last year. The present officers are: Mesdames D. F. Stevenson, president; Arnold Broyles, honorary president; Edwin M. Helbig, first vice president and publicity chairman; W. H. Moor, second vice president; A. O. Woodward, third vice president; W. P. Felker, fourth vice president; S. B. Mitchell, secretary; Ross Cheshire, treasurer, and W. W. Alexander, historian.

Civic Theater League Meets This Evening

The Civic Theater League meets in the theater this evening at 8 o'clock, to try out for parts in the two plays which will be presented in December, "Overruled," by Shaw, and "Shall We Join the Ladies?" by Barrie, are to be read, and as there are a number of parts to cast, a full attendance is urged. The first of these plays will be directed by Carlos Lynes and the second by Parker Hord. "Divorçons," by the French dramatist, Sardou, which will be presented November 18, 19 and 21, is now being rehearsed under the direction of Donald Mayre, promises great success with the following cast: Henri des Prunelles, Pendleton Mitchell; Adhemar de Gratignan, Frank McQuillan; Javignac, Ashton Chapman; Joseph, Fletcher Maguire; Crismann des Prunelles, Ernestine Hornaday; Madame de Brionne, Ethel Noel Shifflet; Madame de Vallfontaine, Elinor Hillier; Mademoiselle de Lusignan, Dorothy Moran, and Joseph, Lucille Applebaum.

From Youth to Old Age

DURING the three trying periods of maturity, maternity and middle age, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound proves its worth.

This famous medicine benefits 98 out of every 100 women who report after taking it.

WINNIE DAVIS DORSEY
519 Orange St., Indianapolis, Indiana

"When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I was run-down and underweight, as girls sometimes are. One of my friends told me about your medicine. I have gained strength and I work every day in a laboratory."—Winnie Davis Dorsey.

10,000 Bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound are sold every day

MRS. VERN L. DENNINGS
510 Johnson St., Saginaw, Michigan

"Although I am only 22 years old, I have four babies to care for. Words cannot explain what your Vegetable Compound has done for me. My mother always kept it in her house for years. She calls it 'the old reliable.' Before my first baby was born she urged me to take it because I was so terribly weak, and I gave it a good trial. After three bottles I could feel a great improvement. At one time I had to lie down four or five times a day. I still take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I need it for I feel that it gives me strength to be a good mother to my little family. I will gladly answer letters asking about it."—Mrs. Vern L. Dennings.

MRS. WILLIAM PARENT
1415 W. 62nd St., Seattle, Washington

"When my little daughter was born, we were living on a homestead way up in northern Alberta, Canada. I had four other children and I worked so hard that I suffered a nervous breakdown. The doctor's tonic didn't seem to help me and when a friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to take that instead. One day I felt good, the next day I might feel bad but I kept on with the Vegetable Compound until I felt well again. It is a wonderful medicine for it surely brought back my strength. Today I can do anything, thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If any woman will write to me I will tell her all I can about this medicine."—Mrs. William Parent.

MRS. DELLA HUTSELL
626 E. 1st St., Casper, Wyoming

"Three years ago I was in bed three months with a nervous breakdown. For years I suffered, having to lie down frequently and often I felt so weak I could hardly stand up. I have four children, the youngest 21, and I board two little school-girls. I try to keep my home as a mother should but I am at the age so many women dread. Since taking six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I feel 100% stronger. I am not so nervous and my appetite is better. My head only bothers me once in a while for which I praise your Vegetable Compound. I am always recommending it to other ladies when we get talking together."—Mrs. Della Huttsell.

KEPT IT ON DINNER TABLE

Lady Says Pinch of Black-Draught, After Meals, Relieved Indigestion.

Asheville, N. C.—"I suffered from indigestion for twelve months," says Mrs. Z. B. Cole, R. F. D. 4, this city. "I had a terrible soreness—could not eat anything that I enjoyed. I had smothering spells, caused, I believed, from indigestion. I was also bilious. I tried medicine, but it did not help me."

"One day I was talking to a friend of our family, and he told me how he had been relieved of indigestion by taking Black-Draught. He told me to try it."

"I started then, taking a small dose after each meal. I kept it on the dining room table for weeks, and took it faithfully."

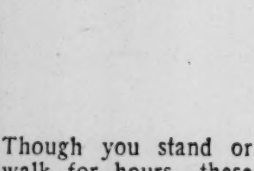

"I soon began to feel better. The indigestion gradually stopped and I gained in health and strength. I have recommended Black-Draught to my friends because it helped me."

Theford's Black-Draught is a purely vegetable preparation of selected medicinal herbs and roots. Black-Draught is finely powdered, which enables the juices of the stomach to extract its medicinal properties in an easy, natural way.

FOLLIES OF 1930 TO BE PRESENTED AT ERLANGER FEB 24

Wallace Milam Will Direct Junior League's Revue

Mrs. Walter H. Wellborn was appointed general chairman of the Junior League "Follies of 1930," by Mrs. John Knox, league president, at the meeting held yesterday at the Piedmont Driving Club, and February 24 was decided as the date upon which the colorful musical revue will be produced at the Erlanger theater, running one week thereafter. Wallace Milam, noted professional stage director, of Wallace Milam, Inc., located on Park avenue in New York city, will direct the revue, arriving in Atlanta one month preceding the date announced for the Junior League "Follies of 1930." The following chairmen will serve with Mrs. Wellborn: Miss Palmer Dallis, program; Mrs. Grady Black, talent; Mrs. George Street, finance; Mrs. Robin Adair, night club hostess; Mrs. Robert White, Jr., fashion show; Mrs. De Sales Harrison, publicity; Mrs. Joel Chandler Harris, photographs; Mrs. Charles Black, Jr., and Mrs. Richards Sawtell, tickets. Members of the organization will be starred in the elaborately staged production and will feature in the chorus, and Mrs. Grady Black, talent chairman, has already begun lining up brilliant and gifted cast composed of Atlanta's prettiest girls and the best dancers among the masculine members of the younger set of society. An illustrated program, arranged in the most elaborate and attractive style, will be issued in connection with the "Follies of 1930," and twenty-five girls will be selected to solicit advertisements for the program, and will most probably never meet with a refusal from Atlantans to contribute an ad to these Junior League Follies. The funds accruing from the production will be applied to the children's ward maintained by the Atlanta Junior League in the Henrietta Eggleston Memorial hospital.

Fitting Appointment.

The choice of Mrs. Wellborn to fill the general chairmanship for the Junior League Follies of 1930, was a very fitting and appropriate compliment, as she possesses marked executive ability, and is indeed a valuable member, having demonstrated her capable qualifications in selling advertising on the programs for former productions. As a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Black, beautiful Mrs. Wellborn is a representative of aristocratic and distinguished Georgia families, being a granddaughter of the late Henry Grady, one of the most brilliant men the south ever produced.

Other Announcements.

Mrs. Knox announced that the Chicago Junior League had extended invitation to the local league to attend the theater conference held in Chicago December 10, 11 and 12. Plays, puppets, and marionettes and other problems of the theater, will be discussed at the conference, and Mrs. Wiley Ballard, was elected to represent the Atlanta league. She was general chairman and moving spirit in the marionette show produced recently in the Woman's Club auditorium, featuring "Cinderella" and "Jack and the Beanstalk." Mrs. Ballard was transferred two years ago from the Birmingham, Ala., league to the local organization, and is recognized as one of its leading and most talented members. Robert Edmund Jones famous as a New York designer of scenery, sets and costumes, will be an important speaker at the conference.

Miss Reese Weds Mr. Jenkins At Druid Hills Church Ceremony

A beautiful event of last evening was the wedding of Miss Mary Pope Reese and Campbell Ort Jenkins, which was solemnized at 8:30 o'clock at the Druid Hills Baptist church. Rev. Lonie D. Newton performed the ceremony in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives. The church was beautifully decorated, the choir led being backed with woodwinds and palms. In the center of the bank arose three seven-branched candelabras holding unshaded tapers.

At either side of the pulpit there was placed a lavender-colored basket holding yellow chrysanthemums, and in the center of the bank was a gold basket holding yellow chrysanthemums tied with lavender ribbon, there being a large white rose festooned from each basket forming a semi-circular effect, and at intervals single candelabras were placed, embedded in a mound of yellow chrysanthemums, the base of the mound being showered with yellow poinsettias. The bride party stood on a raised platform, where there the bride couple took their vows. Seats for the family were marked with clusters of white chrysanthemums.

Proceeding and during the ceremony Mrs. John Felder, organist of the church, rendered a program of wedding music, and "I Love You Truly" was played softly while the marriage vows were spoken. Prior to the ceremony Mrs. Ernest Trotti sang "Because."

Bridal Attendants.

First to enter were the ushers, including Tom Branch and James Smith, followed by Jack Branch and Dodd Cain. Next came the groomsmen, including the bride's brother, Charles Connolly, W. G. Archer and Ed McKeithen. The bridesmaids followed, entering singly. They were Mrs. John R. Kruse, of East Orange, N. J., sister of the groom; Miss Mary Lou Sullivan, Mrs. Miller Hamrick, of Columbia, S. C., and Miss Alice Sullivan. Miss Mildred Warlick was maid of honor, and entered next, followed by Mrs. Orval Williams, who was her sister's matron of honor.

The bride's attendants were becomingly gowned in ankle-length orchid satin models with tight-fitting bodices and tulle skirts shading from pale orchid to deep violet. They wore beautifully cut crystal beads, gifts of the bride, and their slippers were of deep violet satin. They carried bouquets of pernet roses and yellow chrysanthemums, tied with yellow satin ribbon.

Little Miss Viola Frances Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orval Williams, and niece of the bride, and Miss Betty Trotti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Trotti, were flower girls. They were attractively dressed in apple green georgette, made over orchid satin slips. Rows of tiny double ruffles encircled the graceful skirts. They carried small baskets of rose petals.

The groom entered with Garland Hardwick, his best man, and met the bride at the altar.

Lovely Bride.

The bride entered with her brother, Orval Williams, and was lovely in her wedding gown of ivory satin made along princess lines with real lace yolk, and tight-fitting sleeves with lace at the cuffs forming a graceful point over the hand. The gown was shirred in front at the waist line and the full skirt with uneven hemline hung gracefully to a floor length in the back. Her veil of lace which was outlined in pearls was held in place at the head by clusters of orange blossoms and fitted to the head in cap shape. The bride's only ornament was a strand of pearls. Her bouquet was of white roses and valley lilies showered with valley lilies and tied with white satin ribbon.

After the ceremony the bride and groom left for a motor trip to North Carolina. The bride's smart traveling costume was a tailored suit of mixed tweed. The coat featured the modish finger tip length, and the skirt was made with a graceful flare. She wore a blue hat and accessories to match.

Mrs. Jenkins is the daughter of Mrs. Mamie Pope Reese, and the late Joel Ammanuel Reese. She attended Girls' High school and Brenau college, where she was a popular member of the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority.

Mr. Jenkins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jenkins. He was educated at Tech High school and Emory university, where he was a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity. He is now connected with Sears-Roebuck & Co. upon their return to the city Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins will make their home at 967 Ponce de Leon avenue.

Miss Transou Is Honored By Miss Smith

Honoring the attendants for the wedding of Miss Mary Virginia Transou, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sidney Transou, to Bruce Morrison Forster, Miss Ida Smith entertained at a shower Tuesday evening at her home, 601 Penn avenue. Roses, the shades of yellow and white predominating, were used in decorations. Miss Smith wore a becoming model of powder blue, crepe, fashioned along straight lines. Miss Transou was gowned in brown pan velvet offset with touches of lace. The guests included Miss Transou, Mr. Forster, Misses Kitty Koonce, Evelyn Heuer, Sara Cain, Almaeta Longino, Matilde Transou, Edith Forster, Mary Maffett, Katherine Babb, Louise Smith, Frances Simpson and Mesdames John Transou, Francis Hilliard, of Montgomery, Ala.; Fred Johnson and P. Miss Clark Weds Robert C. Jones.

Augusta, Ga., November 5.—The marriage of Miss Florence Walton Clark, of Rockmart, Ga., and Robert Cochran Jones, of Atlanta, Ga., was quietly solemnized at noon at the home of the bride's parents Saturday in Rockmart. Only the immediate families and a few close friends were present. After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served, after which a young couple left for a motor trip to south Florida. After November 12 they will be at home at their apartment, 1055 Piedmont avenue, Atlanta, Georgia.

Mrs. Jones is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Clark, Jr., both former Augustans. Her maternal grandparents were the late Edward Walton and the late Mrs. Mary Lou Turpin Walton. Her paternal grandfather is Frank R. Clark, Sr., of Augusta, her paternal grandmother having been the late Mrs. Margaret Louise Wright Clark. She was graduated last June from Washington seminary, Atlanta. Mr. Jones is a prominent young businessman of Atlanta.

CRAFTY REDDY FOX.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Some things most difficult to gain, By craft and guile we may obtain,—Reddy Fox.

Reddy Fox had discovered Peter Rabbit in a bramble tangle in the Old Pasture and he knew that Peter had not discovered him. Those sharp eyes of Reddy's told him the instant he looked at Peter that something was wrong with him. Remembering the hang of the terrible gun which he had heard some time before Reddy suspected that Peter had been hurt by that terrible gun.

"He looks sick," thought Reddy. "Yes, sir, he looks sick. I guess at last my chance has come to catch him."

There. When he gets hungry—and he will get hungry even though he is hurt—he'll leave that bramble tangle to look for something to eat somewhere else. I hope he'll get hungry soon. For myself, I'm getting hungrier every minute. Just looking at Peter makes me hungry. Yes, sir, it does so."

But time went on and Peter apparently didn't become hungry. He showed no signs of moving. Reddy began to wonder if he couldn't make him move somehow. "I wish shadow the Weasel would come along," thought Reddy. "Shadow could slip into that bramble tangle with the greatest ease and drive Peter out. I wish that hunter would come back this way. He might drive Peter out. I suppose I couldn't crawl in a little way myself and frighten Peter out. But if I did that, by the time I could get out again, Peter would be in another bramble tangle and I would be no better off than before. I believe I'll call Mrs. Reddy. Between us we probably can get Peter. I should have thought of that before. I do hope she hasn't gone off to the Green Forest hunting, or down on the Green Meadows where she cannot hear me. That's what I'll do. I'll call Mrs. Reddy. Then I'll crawl in and drive Peter out for her to catch."

Georgia Woman Is 'Selling' Yams To New Yorkers

To teach the easterners how to cook Georgia yams in order to create a northern market for native products, is the mission of Mrs. David Mitchell, prominent Atlantian, who is representing the state department of agriculture, in New York.

Mrs. Mitchell is accompanied by Mrs. S. I. Dull, southern cooking expert, who is conducting a free cooking school in Gotham for native products, where they exhibited the yam with record-breaking success. They were enthusiastically received by large crowds attending every lecture and free demonstration.

They will visit several other cities in the east, in the interests of Georgia products. Although this is pioneer work for the Georgians, their prospects are excellent, judging from their results to date.

BY THE DIAL TWISTER.

The ring of steel, as echoed down the ages will dominate the premier offering of a new series of broadcast episode scheduled to open through WSB and the coast-to-coast networks to-night.

These are announced by the National Broadcasting Company as the Westinghouse Salute, involving the most elaborate radio productions ever planned for any radio feature.

A dramatic cast of 20 footlight stars, and a 90-piece symphony led by Cesare Simeoni, will be used in the initial, suffering, in succeeding programs. These are the featured performers of a permanent company of 125 people who will present the Westinghouse Salute each Wednesday night at 6:30 o'clock.

The industrial drama of America is the theme of the new radio epic, and steel has been chosen as the initial subject. Plans for the new production were launched more than six months ago, and the first presentation has been in rehearsal for the past six weeks.

Music suggesting the tensile power and strength of steel has been specially transcribed by Soderstrom for the orchestra. The orchestra, consisting of 90 players, will be used as wordless instruments to add an organ-like "vox humana" effect to the woodwinds, brass and strings of the rest of the orchestra.

Two dramatic episodes in the saga of steel will introduce an entirely new method of staging radio dramas. The notable feature will be the use of radio listeners from coast to coast first in a colorful scene from the middle ages, and again in a graphic sketch of modern times.

The voice of a narrator will replace the customary announcer. Pedro de Cordoba, Broadway star and noted radio voice, will perform this function without interrupting the continuity of the productions.

Further musical features will not only include special transcriptions of famous concert works, but also some original compositions by Cesare Simeoni, the director, depicting the titanic drama of America's industrial life.

This week's issue of "Brunswick Revivites," the program sponsored by the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company of Chicago, will present "The Six Jumping Jacks," a novelty orchestra under the direction of Harry Reser, famed banjo virtuoso and recording artist.

The program is full of "outstanding" features. Harry Reser will play his own transcription of "St. Louis Blues" and "Tiger Rag," two of the most famous jazz pieces. Tom Stacks, assisted by Russell Carlson popular orchestras and this program should rank high in the series of "Brunswick Revivites" already produced. Tune in on this entertaining broadcast Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. It will be heard over WSB.

The "Six Jumping Jacks," who produce as much music as an orchestra of ten, are one of Brunswick's most

THE GUMPS—PROGRESS

Housebroken
By PAUL HERVEY FOX

SYNOPSIS.
Tom Davies, football star of a small eastern college, plays brilliantly in his last game. After the battle, Bruce Stevens, his roommate, asks him to go to the dance that night to escort a girl who's been asked down to the college for him. Bruce explains that he wishes to avoid meeting one of the chaperons. Tom agrees to substitute for him. The girl, Suzanne Branch, makes an instantaneous appeal to him.

INSTALLMENT III.
THE BLUNDERER.

There was no one in the chapter house when they reached it. Tom made a fire in the hearth and Suzanne perched herself on the window seat, her slim, pretty legs banded by her arms, her chin resting on her knees. "Don't turn on the lights. The fire's bright enough," she said.

"Who are you?" Tom Davies asked abruptly.

"What? O! You made me jump. Why, I'm—I—I can't think right now. But mostly I'm a minister's daughter, and he's got four other daughters, and I'm the oldest, and I've just got to get married or be thrown out on the world."

"Do you want to get married?"

"Don't be silly! Of course I do. . . . I think I'll tell you everything—you've been so sweet." There was a thin chain about her neck and she drew it up and held something out that she sparkled in the firelight. "Look!" she said.

"You're engaged?" Tom exclaimed incredulously.

"What's so strange about that? I'm not the first girl to become engaged."

"But, I mean—"

"O, I'll explain. There are five of us at home, as I said, and we're all quite plain. I am, too, you know, only I keep moving my face so fast that no one can notice. Joan is going to be fat—she's next to me. But she has nice eyes. And Betty has rather a cute nose, though she's a roughneck at heart. And—however, I'll spare you the details. What I'm coming to is that there's a friend of father's who does like me quite a lot. And he's so rich that every time he thinks of his money he faints. And he wants to marry me. So—well, that's it."

"Are you in love with him?" Tom demanded. He felt that he was scowling. He felt vaguely troubled, and wondered why.

"I'm very fond of him," she said.

"You hide his ring."

"O, he knows all about that. Please don't talk to me like that—it makes me think of father on Sunday. But really I am fond of him. And he knows how I feel, and he tells me to have all the good times I can have while I can. I shan't be married until June."

Suddenly Tom felt he did not like this man she was going to marry. He didn't deserve a girl like this. Then as if by inspiration he asked:

"How old is he?"

"She hesitated a little. 'Well, he's nearly 40. He isn't—he's 43.'"

"You're going to marry a man of 43?"

"Yes; why not?"

"You're marrying him for his money."

"I'm not. I like him. I knew I oughtn't to have told you."

"Well, I think it's a shame. . . ."

"I think I'm awfully lucky. If you think it's easy to marry a millionaire, I hope you'll be born a girl in your next incarnation, and then you'll find out."

He had not meant to, not as abruptly at any rate, but some perversity seized him. He went over to her, put his arms around her, and kissed her. She drew back, pushed him away vigorously. There was a little silence. He knew somehow he had done a foolish thing.

After a while she spoke. "I'm rather disappointed in you. I thought you were awfully nice. You're not."

Then he was so sorry he could not speak. He tried to blunder out the words of an apology and seemed only to get in deeper. His remorse was so genuine that she took pity on him.

"It doesn't matter," she said. "You didn't mean to—and it's probably my fault. And what difference does it make? And anyway I'm awfully sleepy."

He took her up to her room. She whispered "Good night" and held out her slim, little hand.

Tom Davies climbed slowly to the third floor. He lay there, staring into the darkness at the foot of his bed. He was still awake to hear the rest of the party arriving from the gym, the rumble of cars, the click of brakes, the laughter of a girl floating up the stairs, two of his friends singing together, and a third friend begging them to stop. Then the scratch of a phonograph needle and the thin, syncopated music.

He took Suzanne Branch to her train the next day.

"Let me write to you," he pleaded.

"I'd like to write to you."

"I've had a lovely time—that's been your fault mostly. And you've got to tell me all the things that happen to you and that friend of yours when you get to China."

He asked her a few more questions, learned that she came down from Pleasant Brook to New York occasionally, staying there with a friend.

The whistle of the locomotive sounded shrilly. Above the noise of departures and farewells, Tom said suddenly:

"Let me come and see you in New York—in the Christmas holidays."

Her face puckered up in a strange little way. "We shouldn't."

She hadn't said he couldn't see her. And she had included herself in her statement. A strange elation filled Tom Davies. He seized Joe Galbraith, who was on the platform, and wrestled with him, in his exuberance, until Joe lost his temper at the mauling.

When Tom got back to the chapter house Bruce had just arrived. He was minus hat and tie, and one of his eyes was half closed. But his cool, detached, superior air was unchanged.

"I've got some news about China, Tommy. It's fixed up for you to go. I put it over."

"Is that so?" said Tom without enthusiasm.

He wrote her thereafter on the average of once a week, painfully written letters, for he had no fluency in that direction. His love was full, thinking about her, and her image stayed with him. How miserably inadequate were his simple phrases, his accounts of college happenings. Every letter ended with a wretched postscript of apology.

She answered him with gay, irrelevant little notes, spoke of the man she was to marry in a few more months, was friendly and cheerful and not encouraging. But when he wrote to say he was going home by the roundabout method of New York, and he wanted to stop off there and see her, if she'd tell him when she'd be there, she told him he really shouldn't, and it was perfectly senseless, but perhaps it would be well to explain just why, and she would be at Helen Hedges' apartment on Thursday if he cared to.

Tom was in New York on Thursday morning. He did not leave for four days, and he spent his money, reckless of the presents he was supposed to buy for a family of many cousins and aunts and uncles.

She would not see him that first day until 5 o'clock. He had seen movies all day long, waiting for the hour to arrive. When he climbed the three flights of stairs in the Madison avenue apartment he was winded and his heart seemed actually to hurt him.

She looked puzzled and worried and she left him to Miss Hedges, who had glasses and a nice smile and seemed amused at something.

"You've got to eat with me," Tom begged Suzanne desperately when she returned. "I've been counting on it."

They did eat together and Suzanne put off explaining just how impossible this was. And she laughed a good deal, and once in a while she frowned and was silent.

He knew somehow he had done a foolish thing.

After a while she spoke. "I'm rather disappointed in you. I thought you were awfully nice. You're not."

Then he was so sorry he could not speak. He tried to blunder out the words of an apology and seemed only to get in deeper. His remorse was so genuine that she took pity on him.

A SINGING LESSON

FAR-FETCHED and dear bought, as the proverb rehearses,

Is good, or was held so, for ladies; but naught

In a song can be good if the turn of the verse is Far-fetched and dear bought.

As the turn of a wave should it sound, and the thought

Ring smooth, and as light as the spray that disperses

Be the gleam of the words for the garb thereof wrought.

Let the soul in it shine through the sound as it pierces

Men's hearts with possession of music unsought;

For the boundless of song are no jealous god's mercies,

Far-fetched and dear bought.

T COUNT

At first glance all the young ladies look alike; but you are asked to find the Twins that are clothed exactly alike. Now then: upon closer examination you will find a difference in their wearing apparel. Have they all earrings or necklaces? How about their coats and hats? Are they trimmed the same? Some have bands on the brim and crowns, others have not. Maybe the difference is just the buttonhole in the lapel of the coat. It takes real care and cleverness to point out the difference and find the two real Twins, because two and only two are identically the same.

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN,
Associated Press Market Editor.
Chicago, November 5.—(AP)—Abrupt new breaks in wheat values tore the market down 3 1-2c a bushel today, making a maximum drop of 9 1-2c from last week's top level. Huge immediate supplies on hand both in the United States and Canada as well as at the principal European ports.

Which GATE Will YOU Enter?

Some men await the day of retirement with increasing pleasure. These are the men who, out of the earnings of their earlier years, have built a groundwork of financial independence.

Let us tell you about a simple, common sense plan for financial independence. Under this plan, easy systematic investments for only 120 months will build a designated fortune of from $1,500 to $150,000 which will be paid, either in a solid sum, or in substantial annuities, whenever you choose to retire from business. If you follow the plan we will UNCONDITIONALLY GUARANTEE the income.

appeared to be largely responsible. Notwithstanding late estimates that fresh collapse of prices had brought about trans-Atlantic purchasing of 1,500,000 bushels of North American wheat today, the market here closed at within half cent of the lowest point reached.

Latest Chicago quotations on wheat were nervous, 2 3-4 to 3 3-8c under yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1 to 1 3-8c down. Oats 7-8c to 1 1-8c @ 1-1c off and provisions unchanged to a set back of 17c.

With Liverpool, Hamburg and Rotterdam prices for wheat today showing much greater downturns than had been looked for, the market here displayed weakness from the outset. In particular, Chicago traders were uneasy over reports of increasing stocks of wheat in Europe and because of widespread notice being taken of further enlargement of the immense visible supply in the United States. Dispatches at hand put special emphasis on lack of sufficient storage facilities for new arrivals of wheat at Liverpool, and meanwhile hundreds of wheat-laden cars were reported as waiting under demurrage charges at Galveston, with Kansas City and St. Louis offering No. 2 hard wheat available immediately at a hard discount under future deliveries.

Adding impetus to the downward swing of wheat values were assertions that Europeans appear disposed to let holders of wheat on this side of the Atlantic carry the lead and pay storage charges, knocking at the door only when pressing needs require. On the other hand, a leading trade authority gave out a detailed statement today indicating that world import

FUNERAL RITES FOR DR. WALKER THIS AFTERNOON

Final rites for Dr. William Powell Walker, formerly a prominent physician here, who died Monday afternoon at his residence at Fort Myers, Fla., will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at Rock Springs Presbyterian church with the Rev. W. L. Duren and the Rev. I. T. Hawk officiating. Burial will be in the churchyard.

The body will arrive here this morning and will be taken to the residence of Mrs. Lola W. Clement, 281 Fifth street, a surviving sister of Dr. Walker. The funeral party will leave the residence at 2 o'clock.

Could Real Estate Do This?

From the New York Times, we call the following quotation:

"The worst panic in the history of Wall Street is upon us. One day's trading alone is described by the New York Times as 'a country-wide collapse of open market security values in which the declines established and the actual losses taken in dollars and cents were probably the most disastrous and far-reaching in the history of the Stock Exchange.' That day's total shrinkage in American securities aggregated the gigantic sum of fourteen billion dollars. Many stocks declined more than a hundred dollars a share, and in the total decline since September 3 the shrinkage of stock value is conservatively placed at fifty billion dollars, the most drastic securities deflation in the history of the world, one financial writer declares.

No investor in Real Estate is ever asked to deflate his investment in this manner. In this connection, please be advised that we are speaking of Real Estate and not so-called Real Estate Securities.

MISS HARRISON DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Funeral Services Will Be Held at 3 o'clock Thursday Afternoon.

Miss Emma Harrison, 59, for many years active in church and club circles, died Tuesday night at the residence, 215 North Church street, in East Point. Her death was not unexpected since she had been in failing health for a number of months.

She is survived by Charles B. Harrison, a brother, and Mrs. W. B. Harrison, a sister-in-law, who were with her when she died, and a number of nieces and nephews.

An active member of the Methodist church, Miss Harrison always took an interest in civic and women's club affairs, and displayed a talent for writing. She served as correspondent for The Constitution for 21 years.

Miss Harrison was born April 22, 1870, in Campbell county, the daughter of John C. and Sarah E. Harrison, pioneer Georgians. She attended the public schools of Campbell county and removed to East Point with the family in her early womanhood.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon at East Point Methodist church with the Rev. G. H. Venable and the Rev. C. D. Weathering officiating. Burial will be in Hillcrest cemetery.

CAFE AT SAVANNAH SCENE OF SHOOTING; PROPRIETOR VICTIM

Savannah, Ga., November 5.—(AP)—Richard A. Salas, proprietor of the Plaza restaurant, was seriously wounded today during the rush hour by Jack Brown, who fired pointblank down the aisle of the cafe. Brown told police he came here from Florida and that Salas recently had discharged him from his employment.

Salas, after being shot, ran to the kitchen of his restaurant, from where employees took him to a hospital. A traffic officer, A. M. Dominick, who heard the shot, arrested Brown as he walked from the restaurant.

Patrons of the restaurant were startled by the shot, but the affair was over so quickly, few of them left the place.

MERCHANT KILLED

WHEN HIT BY AUTO

Cordele, Ga., November 5.—(Special)—J. N. Daniel, store keeper of Arabi, Ga., was instantly killed in front of his place of business this afternoon when struck by an automobile operated by Monroe Jackson, also a merchant of Arabi.

Mr. Daniel was sixty years old and his eyesight was poor. The driver of the automobile was held blameless for the unavoidable fatality.

Mr. Daniel, who operated a grocery store and filling station, was a resident of Cordele until one year ago and was a native of Ohio. He is survived by his wife.

FLOYD CHANGANG
GUARD SUCCUMBS
TO CONVICT'S SHOT

Rome, Ga., November 5.—(AP)—Oscar Carver, Floyd changang guard, who was shot Saturday by George Smith, a convict, who was later killed, died today.

Death of Carver and the shooting of Smith made three deaths to result from guns finding their way into the convict camp in the last ten months. Authorities are investigating.
